CARMEL VALLEY takes on a checkerboard pattern when seen from the air, as local elected officials and the Pine Cone/Outlook learned on an aerial tour of Monterey County last Saturday by members of the Monterey Bay 99s, a women's aviation group formed in 1929 by Amelia Earhart. The lady pilots took their guests into the wild blue yonder in their small craft and then treated them to a luncheon of roast boar.

Visible in this view looking east up the Valley are Carmel Rancho Shopping Center (lower right), Carmel Middle School (southeast of Carmel Valley Road), and development in the upper Valley. County planning initiative kicks off

By ROBERT MISKIMON

PROPOSERS of an initiative petition to require local voter approval for master plans in unincorporated areas of Monterey County — such as Carmel Valley — kicked off their campaign this week.

A group which calls itself Vote on Tomorrow's Environment (VOTE) is to hold an organizational meeting at 7:30 p.m. today

(May 6) at the Monterey Library, 625 Pacific St., Monterey.

Carmel Valley attorney Alexander Henson, drafter of the petition, said the group hopes to obtain at least 8,000 signatures to qualify the measure for the November general election.

The petition requires a total of 6,600 signatures to qualify for the ballot, but the group hopes to obtain more than the required number of signatures of registered voters in case some names are disqualified, Henson said.

If the measure qualifies for the ballot and is approved by voters, it would require approval by a majority of voters in nine planning areas before master plans for those areas could be adopted by Monterey County.

The areas covered by the petition include North Monterey County, Greater Salinas, Greater Monterey Peninsula, Carmel Valley, Coastal Area, Central Salinas Valley, Toro Area, Cachagua and South Monterey County.

The petition states: "No area plan or amendment shall be adopted for Monterey, or any portion thereof, unless the area plan has been approved by a majority vote of those registered voters within the plan boundaries and voting on the plan."

The initiative would not apply to local coastal programs already certified by the Coastal Commission but "no subdivisions, use permits, or rezonings shall be authorized by Monterey County pursuant to a certified local coastal plan unless said plan has been approved by voters," the petition states.

The petition excludes applications for an-

Clarifies a point

Dear Editor:

A clarification should be noted in Mike Gardner's article entitled "Water Conservation Program Could Cut Use by 15 Percent" on page 2 of the April 29, 1982 edition of the Pine Cone.

Conservation will not eliminate the need for augmentation of the Peninsula's water supply.

The benefit from conservation is that less new water supply would be needed. However, as we experienced during 1976-77, the community is very vulnerable to drought. Conservation can reduce demand during wet years but by itself it does not reduce this vulnerability.

Retain Judge Burleigh

Dear Editor:

I am writing this letter in support of the reelection of Judge William Burleigh to the Municipal Court.

In January of this year I served as a juror in two cases over which Judge Burleigh presided and was very impressed with his professional attitude.

His instructions to the jury, his clear explanations and his court decisions were what I consider were from a very qualified judge.

I would like to see him stay on the bench as I feel he is the kind of a judge we need more of.

Leash law 'inhuman'

Dear Editor:

I have read with deep concern about the ordinance for Carmel which would require a leash law for cats. In the middle of New York City, yes, it would be realistic, but in Carmel residential area it is completely unrealistic.

We questions that all of the possible ramifications of this have been considered. There are many elderly people living in Carmel area. Many have elderly cats that have never been on a leash nor have they been confined indoors at all times. In some instances these animals are the only companions these elderly people have.

The elderly are in most instances on fixed incomes and certainly are not in a position to pay the fines which would result if their cat slipped out the door and was picked up in violation of the proposed leash law. The end result would be that they would have to get rid of their beloved cat, their only companion.

This is one of the most inhumane proposed city ordinances I have had the misfortune to encounter in my 50 plus years in Animal Welfare work — inhumane for the cats and for their owners.

Will shop elsewhere

Dear Editor:

Thank you for printing Judy McCurdy's letter in your last edition (April 22, 1982). Even though she has been picketing her employer for several weeks, Judy continues to serve Bruno's customers.

On March 28, I saw a lady customer carrying a large bag of groceries fall on the Junipero Avenue sidewalk. It was apparent she had either broken her arm or wrist.

Of course, it was Judy who came to her assistance. Not the two clerks who were within a few — and I mean a few — steps of the customer. No — they were too busy having a personal chat. I know because I was standing at the first check stand waiting for some service.

That's when I decided I'll just get myself to other markets.

I certainly hope those who proposed this legislation will reconsider once they realize what catastrophic results such an ordinance could cause.

Destruction of river

Dear Editor:

The story of the storm damage to the approaches to the Schulte Road Bridge reported in the April 15 Pine Cone contains several serious omissions. There is the implication that the county was caught by surprise after the storm in early April; however, after the damaging rains of early January, it was evident that the repair was inadequate at that time to the bridge approach was inadequate. Over 75 residents who use the Schulte Bridge on a daily basis signed a petition which was submitted to the board of supervisors imploring them to take additional steps to protect the bridge before another storm did serious damage. The board chose to ignore the petition.

In addition, the caption under the picture implies that this was a natural disaster caused by "the forces of nature." The current state of the Carmel River, particularly in the area between Cal-Am's Manor well and Schulte well is a man-made disaster, not a natural disaster. This has been stated over and over during the past 15 years by numerous experts.

The extent of the damage done in the vicinity of these wells is so vast that to say that private land owners should be responsible for reparation is both absurd and a cop-out on the part of the community-at-large that uses the water. It makes as much sense to say that individual property owners are responsible for the air pollution above their properties.

Property owners do not "own" their river banks and channels. We have no control over Cal-Am removing as much water as they want, thereby, destroying the riparian vegetation. We cannot prevent fishermen from trampling on our banks nor vehicles from driving on the river beds in summer.

The community must become aware of the steady and inevitable destruction of the Carmel River, particularly by the lowering of the water table through excess pumping. It is only by community effort that the political negligence of the county and Cal-Am's negligence can be overcome and the river be preserved for everyone's use and benefit.

Dog leash law

Dear Editor:

(Dear Carmel City Council members:)

Thank you for passing the long overdue dog leash ordinance.

Two members of my household have been bitten at different times by snarling dogs. To avoid passing one of the snarling, barking dogs it has been necessary to walk around the block, rather unnerving at night.

While I sympathize with cat owners, I have had the experience of having a neighbor cat jump into a high open window to urinate in the middle of a bed in my house.

Several times I have been kept awake by the caterwauling sounds of mating cats on my roof.

My main complaint is cleaning up after dogs to avoid stepping in their messes at night and then having to scrape one's shoes. To pick up a fly-infested mound in the daytime is disgusting and certainly unsanitary.

In a built-up city with 40-foot lots, responsible animal owners should provide adequate exercise space in their own yards, and in the case of cats, a play space covered by screening or chicken wire.

For animal protection and to avoid car accidents, dogs should not be allowed to sleep in the middle of the road or to roam.

Thousands of taxpayer dollars are wasted disposing of unwanted dogs and cats, resulting from indiscriminate mating by animals allowed to roam by irresponsible owners.

Initiative focuses attention on frustration with county

By ROBERT MISKIMON

FRUSTRATION among citizens of Monterey County has reached the point that an initiative petition has been drawn up to wrest control over planning matters away from the board of supervisors and place it directly in the hands of the people. (See related coverage in this issue).

The measure — if enough signatures are gathered to place it on the ballot and it is either approved by voters or enacted by the board of supervisors — would require local voter approval for nine master plan areas in the county.

Most directly affected by this initiative would be residents of Carmel Valley and the unincorporated area of Carmel — where the cries of outrage by citizens over planning decisions by the board of supervisors have been heard the loudest.

If successful, the petition would give residents of Carmel Valley the kind of control over their own destiny they have often said they want. The initiative would require that Valley residents approve the Carmel Valley Master Plan before it is revised and readopted, even if the board of supervisors somehow manages to readopt the plan before the November election.

The basic premise of the petition is that citizens should have more control over their own communities and neighborhoods, which seems to be a very democratic principle and one with which no county supervisors should quarrel.

It is truly unfortunate that citizens have felt compelled to go to these lengths to insure that their best interests are served, but the emergence of this petition is — if nothing else — an indication of the depth of disillusionment of citizens with their county government.

Because of that apparently widespread sentiment, proponents of the initiative ought to have little trouble in collecting the 6,600 signatures needed to place the measure on the ballot in November.

Questions condo figures

Dear Editor:

I read the article concerning the proposed condominium and am somewhat confused.

The article stated that each of the proposed units would be 1,600 sq. ft. and would be constructed on a single level. The first phase of the development would consist of 16 units to be constructed on 20,000 sq. ft. Multiplying the 16 units by 1,600 sq. ft., one arrives at an area of 25,600 sq. ft. required.

Phase two is to consist of 44 units, again of 1,600 sq. ft. each. Again multiplying, this would require an area of 70,400 sq. ft., much greater than the 57,000 sq. ft. mentioned.

It would appear to present a very interesting architectural problem or did I miss something.

Eric S. Gray
Box S3253, Carmel

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Carmel Planning Director Robert Griggs confirmed that the figures in the Pine Cone/Outlook story were correct. The total number of square feet in each phase of the projected development must be divided in half to calculate total coverage of the lot, since construction is planned in two levels. Thus, coverage in the first phase would be about 12,800 sq. ft., and in the second phase roughly 35,200 sq. ft. The planning director encouraged any citizens with questions to contact him at city hall, 624-6835.)

Carmel River management plan will be discussed

THE CARMEL VALLEY Property Owners Association Board of Directors will discuss a proposed Carmel River management program at its May 12 meeting.

Directors will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the Mid-Carmel Valley Fire Station on Carmel Valley Road.

A $150,000-per-year program to restore the Carmel River to health, to stabilize its channels and to control erosion and sedimentation has been proposed by a committee of the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District.

CVPOA directors will receive an update on the status of the Carmel Valley Master Plan environmental impact report, and on the Carmel area Local Coastal Program. Director Corky Matthews will present a slide report on a landslide on Merv Griffin's Carmel Valley property.

The public is welcome to attend.

Hostelry taxes up as Carmel holds its own

The City of Carmel collected $25,052 in hostelry taxes from motels and inns in the city for the three-month period ending March 31, 1982. This represented a rise of 4 percent from last year's figure of $244,436, according to Jim Bajari, city finance director.

While some motels displayed "Vacancy" signs on some weekends for the first time in recent memory and many innkeepers said the occupancy rate was down, the figures indicate that Carmel is holding its own in the face of the current recession.

For the year ending Dec. 31, 1981, the city reaped $1,199,771 from the hostelry tax, a whopping 16 percent increase over the comparable 1980 figure of $1,031,934.

Receipts by calendar quarter were: First quarter — $244,436, an increase of 22 percent; second quarter — $319,303, an increase of 20 percent; third quarter — $362,116, an increase of 14 percent; and fourth quarter — $273,916, an increase of 19 percent.

The eight percent tax levied on motel occupancy is an important source of revenue for the city. It currently provides almost one-third of the total city budget.

almost continual bad weather, the peninsula has enjoyed warm temperatures and bright sunny days for the past three weekends. (Photo by Michael R. Gardner)

School property ready for sale/lease

By ROBERT MISKIMON

TRUSTEES of the Carmel Unified School District are scheduled to take the first step toward sale and lease of surplus property May 11.

The board of education will consider approval of a notice of intent to sell or lease Carmelo and Woods elementary schools and district administrative offices.

The board is to meet at 7:30 p.m., May 11 at Captain Cooper School in Big Sur, located about 25 miles south of Carmel.

Trustees seemed to be in agreement at their April 27 meeting with a committee report that recommended lease of Carmelo School and central office quarters, and sale of the Carmel Woods property.

The district scheduled newspaper advertisements to appear this week, indicating the availability of the two sites for lease in an effort to determine what the demand is for the facilities, said Business Manager Robert Zampatti.

Trustees learned in a study session with attorneys after their April 27 meeting that the district could proceed much faster with disposition of the surplus property than previously thought, said President Ken White.

"We're moving right away," White said. "We have to advertise to find out who wants the school and office sites, and get appraisals. Once we are done, we can go forward."

White said he is optimistic the surplus property can be either sold or leased by next fall.

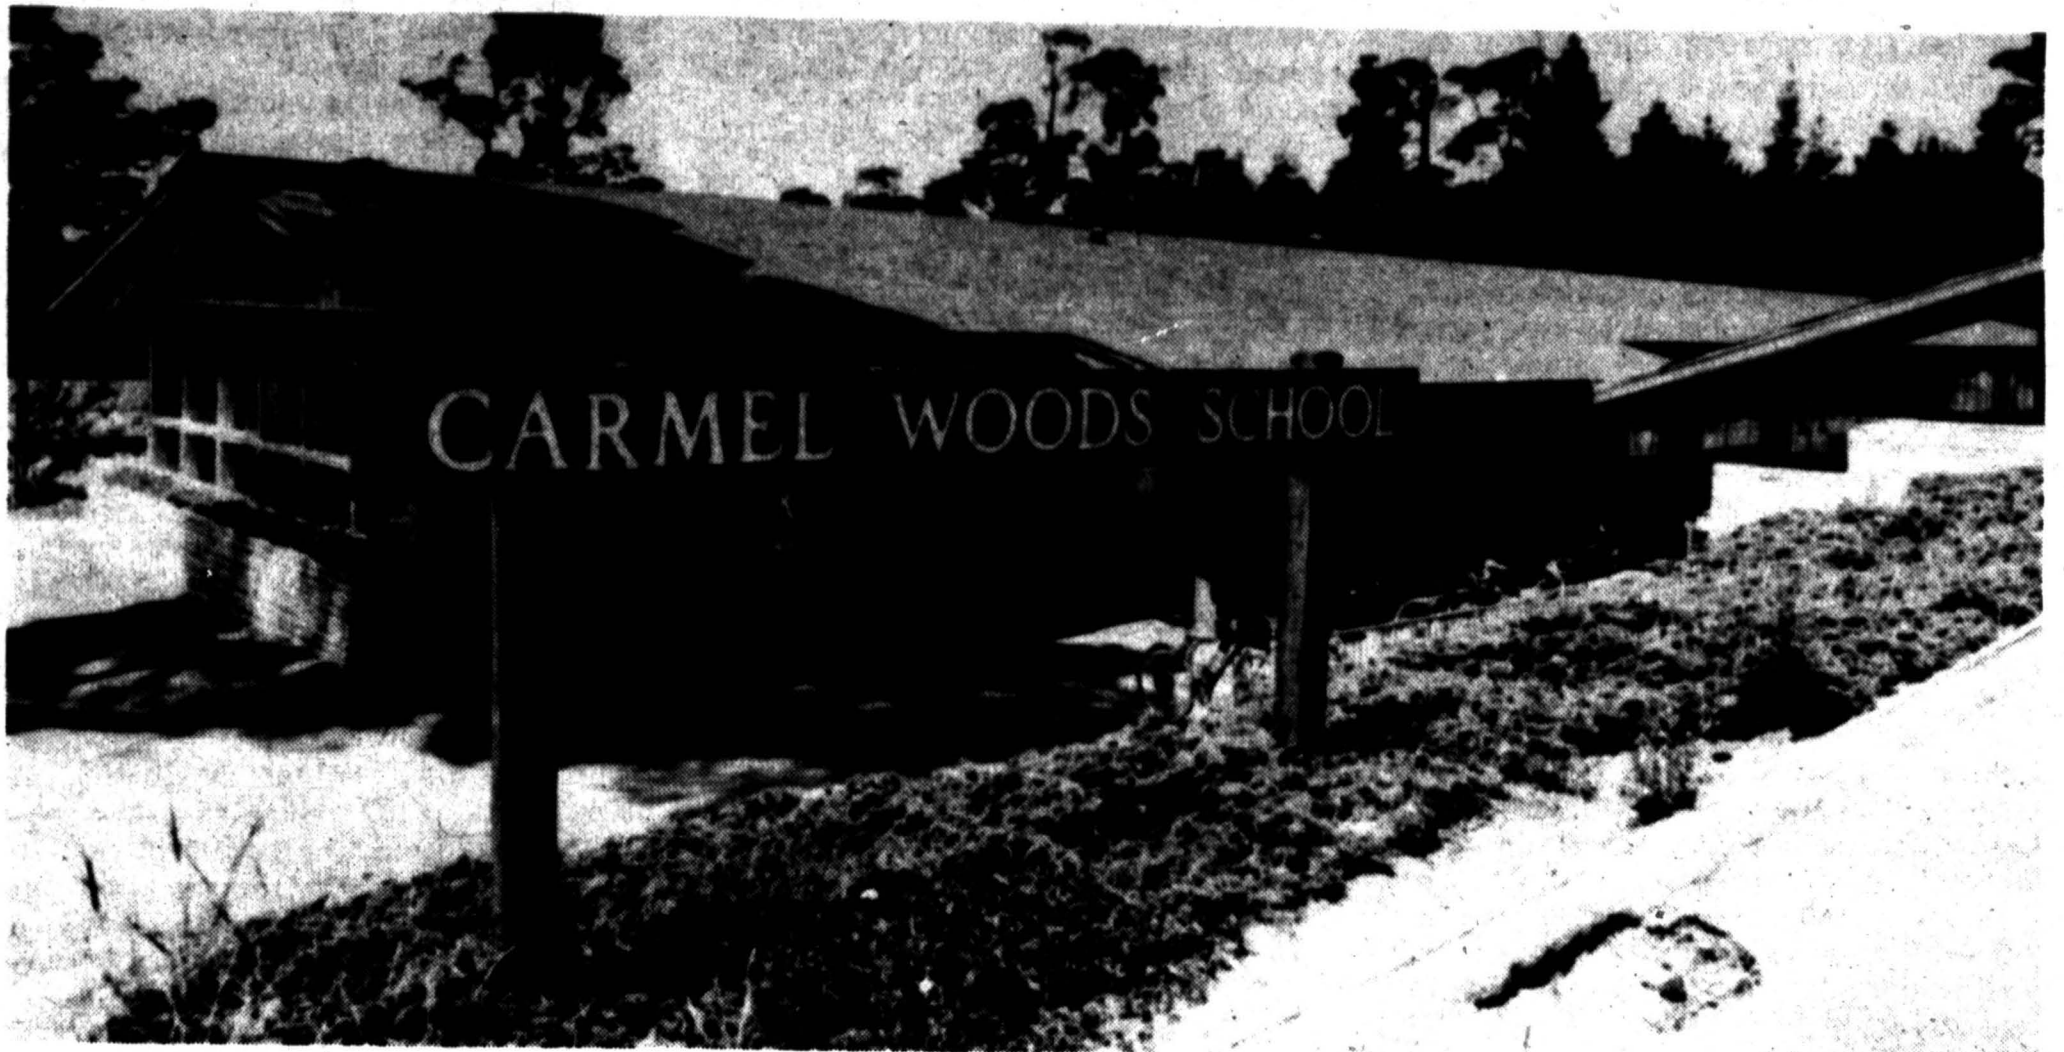

The board of education will also be presented at its May 11 meeting with a "calendar of events showing the time line leading to a sale or lease of school property," Zampatti said.

Because of declining student enrollment and reduced revenues to the district, the board of education voted last October to close two elementary schools to reduce costs. Estimated savings to the district by closure of Carmelo and Woods — even without sale or lease — is $95,000 per year.

The nine-member advisory committee on surplus properties recommended lease of the Carmelo School site in Carmel Valley because "the current enrollment decline may be reversed in years to come."

"If this were to occur, some of the surplus property may be needed again. An increase in students would more logically take place in the Carmelo area than in the Woods area."

THE COMMITTEE recommended that the 12-acre Carmelo School site be leased for use as executive or professional offices;

CARMEL WOODS site may be sold by the Carmel Unified School District Board of Education once real estate appraisals have been received. The school site is within the unincorporated Carmel Woods area proposed for annexation to the city of Carmel. It is residential retirement use, or for use as a service center. The site has been mentioned as an alternative location for a 30,000 sq. ft. service center proposed at Valle Vista and Carmel Valley roads in Carmel Valley.

A separate committee that studied the disposition of surplus property several months ago estimated that lease of the Carmelo School site could generate about $100,000 in revenues to the district. Potential sale value was estimated as $500,000.

The earlier estimated $700,000 sale value of the 2.8-acre Carmel Woods site was called "very conservative" by the nine-member advisory panel when it recommended sale of the parcel.

The Carmel Woods site is in an unincorporated area which would be annexed to the city of Carmel if a proposed annexation drive by Carmel Woods residents succeeds. The land is zoned R-1 (residential) on county maps, and that designation would also apply if the property is annexed to the city, said Carmel Planning Director Robert Griggs.

Central office facilities located adjacent to Carmel Middle school should not be leased until the lease value of the present location, compared to the lease value of the alternate location, is known, according to the committee report.

Estimated yearly lease value of the 7,500 sq. ft. of building space at the central office building is $90,000.

The advisory committee prepared its recommendations after it held a public hearing March 8 at Carmelo School and March 18 at Woods School. Committee members are Leslie Leslie, chairman; Lynn Brooks, Don Goodhue, Don Nelson, Richard Abbott, Michael Brown, Sharon Jones, Roberta Hall, Robert Zampatti.

"We plan to advertise the availability for lease of Carmelo School and the district office space, and then we will find out whether there is a demand for them," Zampatti said. "Then we will tailor the board's terms and a minimum price after we find out who's interested."

"It seems likely the board will decide to sell Woods School, but we need to have it appraised before we do it."

Zampatti said the district has to know whether the State Allocation Board will require that an outstanding state loan of about $80,000 for construction of Captain Cooper

School must be repaid out of proceeds from the Woods School sale.

Board President Ken White said he agrees with the committee recommendations and added: "I want to move as fast as we can to have independent appraisals and to assign the highest income to those properties."

White said he hopes that the Woods School site could be developed into senior citizen housing, possibly through remodeling of the existing school building.

In other business at its May 11 meeting, the board is scheduled to:

- Approve second reading of a policy to grant limited academic credit for participation in after-school sports. The policy would permit only those students who can prove scheduling "hardships" to earn credit for athletics.
- Approve plans for the 1982 summer school session.
- Approve a regional occupational water safety instruction course for the district.
- Consider a resolution which would urge the state Department of Transportation not to abandon and sell the right-of-way to the Hatton Canyon Freeway.
- Consider revisions to the preliminary 1982-83 budget.

Carmel may request a larger water allocation

By MICHAEL R. GARDNER

A PLAN to acquire more water for Carmel that has been dormant for three months has come to life again in a proposed draft element of the general plan.

The General Plan Advisory Committee will meet tonight (May 6) to review an administrative draft for the open space/conservation/scenic highway element. The session is at 7:30 p.m. at city hall. The public is invited to comment.

Included in the proposed element is a provision that calls for the city to "formally request a larger allocation from the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District over and above the current 5.545 percent of resources. This may include a re-evaluation of allocation formulas."

The water district has a formula that limits areas, such as Carmel, to a percentage of the available water supply. If Carmel surpassed its 5.545 percent allocation, the district could impose mandatory conservation measures.

The issue was the subject of lengthy discussions at the planning commission level when Commissioner John Logan proposed an ordinance that would invoke regulations for water conservation if Carmel surpassed 95 percent of its allocation limit.

The commission did not formally recommend that the city adopt the ordinance but sent it to the city council for consideration.

But at the council level, the ordinance died and more recent water district figures indicated that Carmel did not reach 95 percent of its allocation.

In the proposed element, city general plan consultant Earth Metrics suggests several other conservation measures:

- Support the Carmel Sanitary District water reclamation project and investigate the possibility of buying reclaimed water when that project is completed in 1985.
- Consider additional conservation measures and ordinances to regular water use in the city.
- Encourage retrofit programs for toilets and showers to conserve water.
- Participate in a joint water conservation program with the sanitary district, water district and the Monterey Regional Water Pollution Control Agency.

JUNIPERO AVENUE and Scenic Road would be designated "scenic corridors" under the proposed element.

The designation would apply to Junipero Avenue from First Avenue to Rio Road because it "has been paved to the natural contours of the land and lacks visual distracting street signals and directional signs."

It was also recommended because Junipero Avenue provides a link to such popular sites as Sunset Center, downtown, Mission Trail Park, Carmel Mission and several parks. Scenic Road from Ocean Avenue to the southern city limits would be designated because it "is a one-way roadway which meanders south from Ocean Avenue, along the cypress trimmed beach bluffs, beyond the southern city limits, past the historical Robinson Jeffers Tor House and ending along the Carmel River State Beach.

"The junction of Scenic Road and Santa Lucia Avenue, where Scenic Road becomes a two-way road, provides an uninterrupted view of the length of the city beach and from Pebble Beach to Carmel Point."

The proposed element also suggests that the city should support the state and county designated highways and related policies.

Earth Metrics did not address the Highway 1/Hatton Canyon Freeway issue in this element, but will make recommendations under the "circulation" element, which the committee will review later.

THE CITY should continue its 1976 Carmel Land Acquisition Policy that says "land acquisition by the City of Carmel should be confined to fulfill specific needs of the city," the consultant recommended.

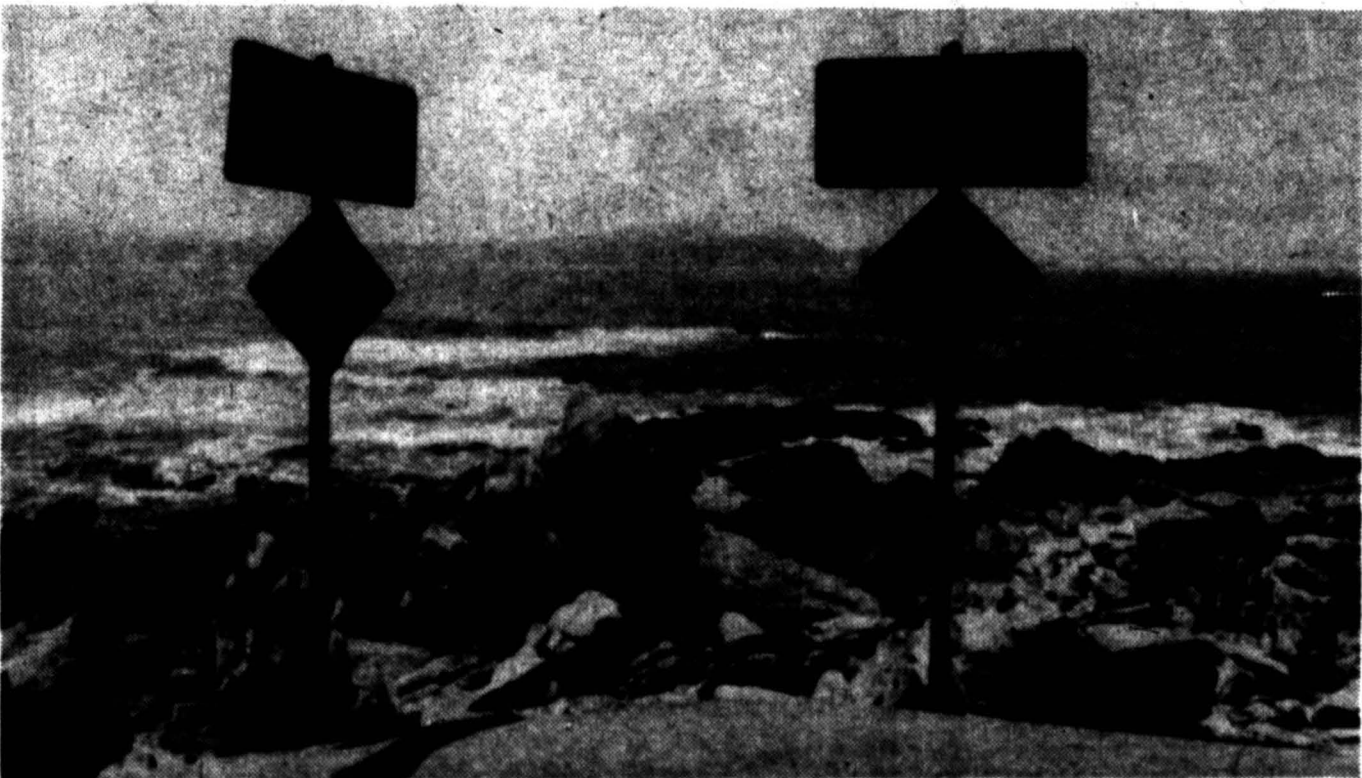

The policy would include provisions that the city acquire for "immediate" needs:

- The Hodges property, southeast end of Dolores Street, for a corporation yard.
- The Tevis property, south side of Rio Road between Ladera and Lasuen Drives, and exchange this property for a parcel at the east end of the Little League park near Carmel Mission.

• The Handley property, southwest corner of Junipero Avenue and Fourth Street, for a parking lot.

Earth Metrics also presented a list of proposed acquisitions for "future" needs:

- The Byrd property, south side of Fifth Avenue between Mission and San Carlos Streets, for a parking lot.
- The Margaret Tuggle property, east side of Mission Street between Ninth and Tenth Avenues, for future parking needs at Sunset Center.

WHICHEVER route you choose, Scenic Road offers spectacular views. A proposed element for the Carmel General Plan suggests that Scenic Road should be designated a "scenic corridor." The General Plan Advisory Committee will meet at 7:30 p.m. tonight to discuss the open space/conservation/scenic highway element. (Michael R. Gardner photo)

Board continues hearing on Giorgio's Cafe

GIORGIO'S MAY have been granted sign approval and Anton and Michel actually won a majority vote on its application to open a patio, but neither came out winners in the end.

A public hearing on an application to open Giorgio's Italian Cafe on the south side of Ocean Avenue between San Carlos and Mission Streets was continued by the Carmel Board of Adjustments April 28 because of legal technicalities.

The issue was continued until the May 26 session of the board.

However, when the board reconvened as the Carmel Planning Commission, the sign for Giorgio's was approved unanimously. The commission then asked for the restaurant design application to be resubmitted.

The application has stirred some controversy and raised several legal questions because Dock Lor, owner of the Chinese Canton restaurant that occupies the site, has said he does not want to move.

In a separate issue, an application by Anton and Michel restaurant to open a courtyard seating area was rejected, although the vote was 4-2 in favor of the request.

Under city regulations, a use permit must be granted by five board members.

Anthony Salameh, a partner in the restaurant, said an appeal of the commission decision has been filed and his application will be reviewed by the city council May 18.

Salameh wants to open the restaurant for lunches between 11:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. To draw business, he has asked for city permission to allow seating in the courtyard behind the restaurant, south side of Dolores Street between Ocean and Seventh Avenues.

However, commissioners Gene Cava and Arthur Mertens voted against the application because they believe it would violate the general plan moratorium.

Under the moratorium, there can not be expansion of (or new) food service establishments unless such use can be "reasonably expected" to be allowed under the general plan, which is under revision.

Mertens and Cava did not specifically oppose the plan for a courtyard patio, but said they would rather wait until the general plan revision is complete.

Sandy Swain, acting chairwoman, said the restaurant use could be "reasonably expected."

"I think it's just a charming courtyard. It would add a great deal," she said.

SALAMEH BELIEVES the request does not fall under the moratorium because it would not increase the number of seats allowed by the original use permit.

Salameh said the use permit allows 130 seats and he has 80 in the dining room and 20 in the bar — 30 below the number permitted.

The courtyard would have 32 seats, but Salameh said he would trim it to 30 to stay within the allowable number.

He added that the restaurant would open for lunch in early June. Salameh said he would open for lunch even if the courtyard seating is not allowed by the city.

In the Giorgio's issue, Planning Director Bob Griggs said several legal difficulties must be worked out with the city attorney. Griggs recommended the continuance.

City Atty. George Brehmen was absent from the session.

The problems go back to December 1981 when Lor was granted a use permit to move his restaurant to San Carlos Street and Seventh Avenue, a site now occupied by Sample Safari, Griggs said.

Griggs said it was the understanding of the city that another restaurant would not replace Dock Lor's, once it moved to the new location.

Today, the use permit is still valid and Lor has not moved, he pointed out.

Griggs said either the Giorgio's application or Lor's use permit for the San Carlos Street and Seventh Avenue site would fall under the general plan moratorium, which does not allow for new food service establishments unless that use can be "reasonably expected" to be allowed under the general plan.

"The question is, which one?" Griggs said.

Another problem with the design study of Giorgio's is that it would have to be approved by the city council because the site is in the Doud Building, which is listed as "significant" by the city, said Griggs.

"This is real confusing to probably you, to me, and at this point to the applicants' attorneys," Griggs told the board.

Most of the discussion at the meeting centered on whether Lor would retire.

Dennis Fox, representing Lor, said: "Mr. Lor at this time is not intending to retire."

ATTORNEY John Clark, representing lease-holder Dick Bruhn, said "It is not in the best interest of Dick Bruhn to be heavily-handed with Dock Lor."

Clark claimed that Lor had indicated two years ago that he planned to retire when the lease terminated Feb. 14. Lor is now on a month-to-month lease.

Charles Gruwell, who described himself as an interior designer, supported Giorgio's. "I feel it will do nothing but enhance the existing building and I want to speak in favor of it."

Sharon Larson, who said she is a 36-year resident of the Peninsula, agreed: "I think the quality is something Carmel needs." She said the restaurant would appeal to local residents.

But Ed Hicks of Carmel felt differently. He said he could not understand why Bruhn wanted to terminate a lease with Lor. He said he liked the Chinese restaurant. "I just see no reason for it."

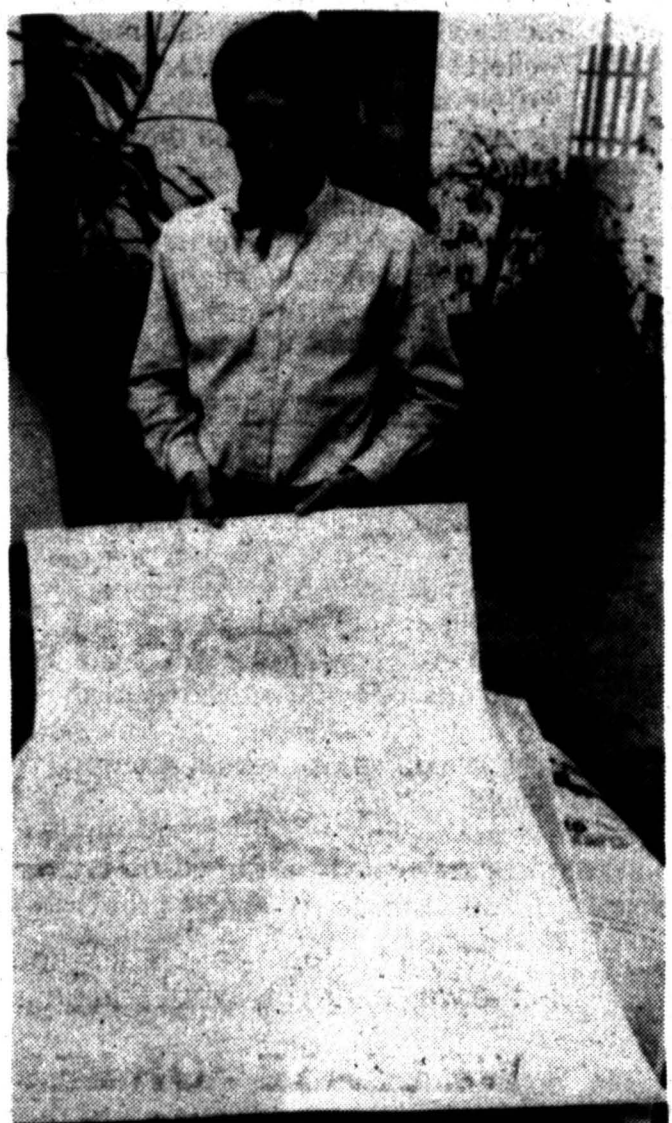

Later, acting as the planning commission, board members reviewed the design for the project.

The commissioners agreed that the design would have to be resubmitted, because they did not like the plan to open up the front doorway. They said they preferred a normal door entrance.

But Giorgio's did win one round when the commission approved the sign application.

Giorgio's would be an Italian Cafe that offers pizza, salmon, chicken, ham, tuna, fruit juices, desserts and light breakfasts. It would be open from 7:30 a.m. until 10:30 p.m., under plans submitted to the city.

The applicants are Tricia Aliotti and Maureen Duffy, partners in a Pacific Grove Italian restaurant, and George Brook-Kothlow, an architect in Carmel.

PLANS for the Italian restaurant "Giorgio's" were presented to the planning commission April 21 by one of the owners, George Brook-Kothlow.

Miskimon named managing editor

ROBERT M. MISKIMON JR. has been appointed managing editor of the Carmel Pine Cone/Carmel Valley Outlook.

The announcement was made this week by Albert M. Eisner, editor and publisher.

Miskimon has been a general assignment reporter for the Pine Cone/Outlook for the last year.

He was managing editor of the Seaside Post News-Sentinel, a Seaside weekly newspaper, from 1975-81. He served a stint with the Carmel Pine Cone as editor from 1973-75 under previous ownership.

Miskimon was a political and labor writer for The Salinas Californian from 1971-73, and was editor of two weekly newspapers on the San Francisco Peninsula, The Los Altos News and The Mountain View News-Herald from 1969-71.

He was a state news editor with The Associated Press in New Haven, Conn. from 1967-69. Miskimon's first newspaper assignment was as a reporter with The Daily News in St. Thomas, U.S. Virgin Islands.

Miskimon attended the University of Virginia, and holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Richmond (Va.). He did graduate work at the University of Missouri School of Journalism in Columbia, Mo.

Miskimon lives with his wife, Christine, and two daughters, Mae and Elizabeth, in Pacific Grove.

Could city buy post office building?

By ROBERT MISKIMON

THE CITY of Carmel may be able to insure that the Post Office remains where it has been for the last 20 years, if one Carmelite's ideas gain the favor of city officials.

Postmaster Frank Ledesma has indicated the Carmel-by-the-Sea Post Office may have to move when the current lease expires in 1987.

One of two owners of the property which the Post Office rents is not willing to negotiate a long-term extension of the lease, Ledesma said. That disclosure revived discussion about the possibility of relocating the Post Office to Sunset Center with improved parking facilities.

But Ken Bullock, a Carmel High School teacher and part-time real estate salesman in Carmel, believes it may be possible to keep the Post Office where it is.

If the city of Carmel purchased the 15,000 sq. ft. building, it could lease the space to the U.S. Postal Service, Bullock suggested to the Pine Cone/Outlook. If the present owners didn't agree to sell, the city might even be able to acquire the property through powers of eminent domain, Bullock said.

"I wouldn't state categorically whether it's legal or illegal. It might also be possible for the city to acquire the property and put some type of municipal service there, or possibly put in some apartments for the elderly."

City Atty. George Brehmer said it's "an interesting" idea that should be explored, but couldn't say whether it would be strictly legal for the city of Carmel to purchase and lease the property.

Bullock outlined the process for city acquisition of the property:

"The city agrees to buy the building and rent it back to the U.S. government at fair market value. This makes everyone in town happy that we can keep the post office in town, and we don't have to build a much more expensive building at Sunset Center."

"The city would offer a fair price to the owners, and the owners would probably turn it down. If they did, the city could institute eminent domain proceedings and take it away from the owners. The city then rents it on a long-term lease to the Post Office."

"That's an interesting idea," City Attorney Brehmer said. "It's worth looking in to if the city council desires. In effect, the city would be going into private business and leasing to another governmental agency which carries out services in the community."

"I wouldn't state categorically whether it's legal or illegal. It might also be possible for the city to acquire the property and put some type of municipal service there, or possibly put in some apartments for the elderly."

BULLOCK went one step further and suggested that the city could sell or trade the Piccadilly Park to finance purchase of the Post Office property.

That 40-by-100 foot lot on Dolores Street between Ocean and 7th Avenues was acquired by the city for $400,000 and is to be developed into a mini-park. Final landscaping plans have not been approved by the city council.

"If funding is a problem in our rich little community, the city could put the 'park' lot on Dolores on the market to get at least a part of the purchase price," Bullock suggested.

"The city might offer the park to the owner of the Post Office building as partial payment in a straight trade. If eminent domain proceedings take place, the tax consequences for the owner of the building in terms of capital gain might be avoided."

"We had a beautiful plan for the Sunset Center Post Office with employee parking three levels down from the street," Ledesma said. "We started working on it in 1962 and it was ready in 1974, but then things broke down."

Postmaster Frank Ledesma said the Postal Service wanted a 10-year lease to amortize a $200,000 renovation project on the present building, but was refused by Crocker Bank. The bank administers the estate of Laura Lee, which owns the front portion of the property.

The rear portion of the property is owned by George Gandzjuk of Carmel. Ledesma said Gandzjuk is willing to negotiate a renewal of the lease.

Ledesma urged local officials to begin discussion and consideration of the future site of the Post Office, although the lease does not expire for another five years.

State panel to weigh Pico Blanco report May 18

By ROD HOLMGREN
Chairman, Northern California Coastal Task Force
Sierra Club

AFTER MORE than 15 years of exploration, Granite Rock Company was scheduled to start major limestone mining operations at the southeastern base of Pico Blanco Mountain in Big Sur last month.

With a U.S. Forest Service permit issued last fall, company owner Bruce Wolpert planned to extract an average of 32,000 tons of "whiting" grade limestone a year for five years from a group of lode and placer claims near the South Fork of the Little Sur River.

The ore was to be trucked out on a Forest Service road built by the company in recent years, and an older road across the Hill Ranch, El Sur, running to Highway 1 near the mouth of the Little Sur River. The trucks, operating only between 10 p.m. and 7 a.m. would turn north on Highway 1.

Wolpert was expected to sell the ore to markets in the San Jose and San Francisco Bay areas, for use as "filler" in such products as plastics, glass, rubber, putty, chewing gum and crayons.

Even as the mining began, two controversies boiled up over the destiny of the famous mountain.

One concerned the "mineral resources" policies of the Big Sur Local Coastal Program. The Monterey County Board of Supervisors rejected or sidestepped three "conditions" proposed by the California Coastal Commission when it considered the Big Sur LCP last fall.

The first called for a ban on surface mining in both the Big and Little Sur drainage basins. The board of supervisors, in effect, rejected this condition with a policy which allowed surface mining "where no other technique is feasible."

The Little Sur has been designed a protected waterway and John Stanley is completing a river management plan for the entire basin, as he did last year for the Big Sur River.

Another condition called for definition of "large-scale" mineral mining as anything over one-half acre per square mile of watershed. The supervisors refused to define "large-scale" mining, which would be prohibited, but rather said: "The total amount of exposed surface (from a mining operation) shall be the minimum necessary to support the operation."

At a meeting sponsored by the Sierra Club at Carmel High School, Richard Zechent-mayer of the Forest Service said the present mining permit will allow the company to dig a pit 40 feet deep and 30 acres wide.

Brian Finegan, attorney for Granite Rock Co., said the Pico Blanco mining is expected to last 50 years. Wolpert owns 1,000 acres on the mountain and has Los Padres National Forest claims which cover more than 1,800 acres.

The third commission condition called for an LCP statement that limestone is available from other areas of the state, that mineral extraction is not a "coastal dependent" use, and that the county has final authority over mineral mining in the coastal zone.

Here the supervisors responded with a denial that they could determine availability of limestone from other sources. At the same time they called attention to a "classification" report then being prepared by the State Mining and Geology Board.

THAT REPORT has since been completed, but so much controversy has erupted over its contents that the State Mining and Geology Board deferred action on it until its next meeting May 18 in Sacramento.

The report declared that the Pico Blanco deposits are "significant," but failed to follow the State board's own guidelines in several ways.

For example, the report did not take into account the costs to mitigate impacts of mining, milling, transportation and marketing. Its 50-year economic projections of possible demands for high-calcium limestone are "filled with logical errors," according to a University of California geologist who read the report.

The UC expert argued, in a letter to the board, that the figures, used in the report indicating a steady increase in demand for the next 50 years, "obscure" the fact that during part of the last 20 years demand has declined in California. "The trend since 1960 in whiting production has been essentially flat nationwide and in California," he concluded.

Officials of the State Mining and Geology Board emphasized that the classification report was intended only to determine that the deposit was "significant" up to the threshold value of 37,000 tons worth $1 million. A "designation report," which would indicate the region and statewide significance of the deposit, will not be prepared "for at least two or three years," they said.

The Coastal Commission is expected to consider the county supervisors' responses to its Big Sur LCP conditions no earlier than June.

Jim Josoff, leader in Friends of the Big Sur, indicated support for the mining program at the Sierra Club forum. He said he had read in a magazine article that limestone could be useful to fight "acid rain" when used to line the sides of power plant smokestacks.

Robert Greenwood, a registered geologist who lives in Carmel Valley, pointed out that "whiting" quality limestone is not needed for that purpose. "You can do it with any grade of limestone, and there are many deposits in California," he said.

The tri-county Boy Scout Council which runs the Palo Colorado Boy Scout camp at Pico Blanco's northeastern base near Granite Rock's claim, refused to take a position on mining at Pico Blanco.

"That's a political issue, and our by-laws prohibit our becoming involved in political questions," said Dean Grafton, director for the district Boy Scout office in Salinas.

Several members of the Boy Scout Council board of directors work for Granite Rock Co., and the council chairman is an officer of the bank where the company conducts its financial affairs.

ROD HOLMGREN, author of the accompanying article, indicates the portion of Pico Blanco proposed for accelerated limestone mining by Granite Rock Co. on federal lands within the Los Padres National Forest. A classification report on the project is to be considered by the State Mining and Geology Board May 18. (Photo by Mike Gardner).

New Carmel planning commissioner against 'blanket' rules

The newest member of the Carmel Planning Commission would like to see the city consider individual applicants on such issues as housing, parking and business instead of "blanket" limitations.

Richard Barrett, a 38-year-old architect and resident of Carmel for the past decade, was appointed to the commission by the city council May 4. He will take his seat May 19.

Barrett will replace former commission chairman Robert Stephenson, who was elected to the council.

This is Barrett's first political office. His previous public service was as grand marshal of the 1981 Carmel Sand Castle contest.

Barrett is originally from Cincinnati, Ohio and came to Carmel from San Francisco where he worked with a large architectural firm.

"It's just a feeling of duty.

They need more architects on the planning commission," Barrett said. "I'm more interested in the design review. I'm more interested in building rather than the political and legal aspects of my job."

Barrett also discussed three issues that will be debated as work on revision of the 1973 general plan continues: tourist-oriented business, housing and parking.

He said he does not think the city should make "blanket" regulations, but should develop policies and then consider individual applications on their own merits.

"As a resident, I would like to see more residentially-oriented businesses," he said. "But some of the so-called tourist-oriented businesses are also residentially-oriented. There are restaurants that could be called tourist-oriented, but as a resident I appreciate having them there."

Barrett is strongly opposed to parking garages. "I think that if you build parking garages they just make room for more cars in the streets," he said. "Garages are eyesores. Monterey is a good example."

Barrett would like to see "second kitchen" applications considered individually. "There are instances where that would be valuable to everyone, but they would have to be controlled."

Scouts plan summer journey

Nine Scouts from Carmel's Explorer Post 3 and Boy Scout Troop 3 will travel to Cimarron, N.M. and the Philmont Scout Ranch this summer (July 23-Aug 21) where they will participate in a rugged 57-mile backpacking trek.

The particular trek selected by the Scouts will include fishing, gold panning, blacksmithing, black powder rifle shooting, burro racing, rock climbing and mountain search and rescue. In addition to the trek at Philmont, the Scouts will tour Edwards Air Force Base, the Grand Canyon, the Petrified Forest, La Junta, Colo. (Home of the Koshare Indian Dancers), the United States Air Force Academy, Denver, Old Fort Bridger and other points of interest.

Five Eagle Scouts who will participate are Van Crege, Jerry Hu, Addison Phillips, Clifton Bonner and Chris Bowe. Other Scouts planning to attend are Conrad Lindgren, Chris Tolles, Ben Godfrey and Daniel McLean.

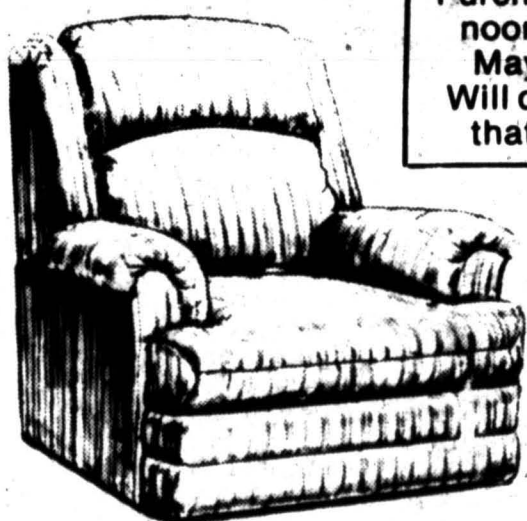

The Scouts will be accompanied on the trip by Scoutmaster Art Crego, who will go on the trek and Jane W. Crego, who will take a conservation course at the Philmont Training Center.

JUDGE William Burleigh, appointed to the Monterey County Municipal Court bench in 1973, believes there are no real issues in the June election campaign, and there is no basis to a call for "law and order."

CHALLENGER Steve Sillman, a deputy district attorney, thinks he can run a more efficient and less wasteful court than Judge

William Burleigh and hopes to win a six-year term of office June 8. (Robert Miskimon photos).

Judge Burleigh faces challenge from Sillman in June 8 election

By ROBERT MISKIMON

VOTERS in Monterey County will judge June 8 who is best qualified to sit on the bench of the Monterey County Municipal Court.

Although the verdict isn't in yet, all evidence points to a hard-fought contest between incumbent Judge William Burleigh and challenger Stephen Sillman, a deputy district attorney.

Burleigh, 47, was Carmel city attorney from 1965 to 1973, when he was appointed to the bench by former Gov. Ronald Reagan. He has never faced an election challenge since his appointment.

Sillman, 34, has been a deputy district attorney prosecutor for eight and one-half years, and has been with the Monterey County District Attorney's office since 1977. He is also municipal court supervisor.

All but a small portion of the 109,662 registered voters in Monterey County will vote June 8 to decide who will sit for the next six years on the municipal court bench. A small portion of the county south of Big Sur and an area in the Salinas Valley south of Chualar will not vote in the election.

"There is no reason for people to be upset with the court system in this county," Burleigh said. "The public can't pinpoint anything that's wrong."

"Judge Burleigh follows a conservative, law and order philosophy which emphasizes individual responsibility." — Burleigh campaign literature.

"(Steve Sillman) wants to trim waste and increase efficiency in this municipal court, to manage it in ways that will earn our respect and confidence." — Sillman campaign literature.

Sillman has prepared and distributed a wallet-sized campaign card printed in red, white and blue colors which lists the endorsements of 15 law enforcement agencies in Monterey County. He insists, however, that he is not merely a "law and order" candidate.

Burleigh, on the other hand, downplays the significance of those endorsements and says there are no real issues in the campaign. He points out that Sillman got many of those endorsements before he announced as a challenger for the judgeship.

Sillman acknowledges that many of those endorsements came months before he announced Feb. 1 he would run against Burleigh, but adds that the same organizations reaffirmed their support after it was widely known that he would challenge Burleigh.

THESE ARE the organizations which have expressed support for Sillman: Monterey County Chiefs of Police Association, Deputy Sheriff's Association of Monterey County, Salinas Police Association, Monterey Police Association, Seaside Police Association, Marina Public Safety Officers' Association, Pacific Grove Police Association, Del Rey Oaks Police Department, Sand City Police Officers, King City Police Officers' Association, Soledad Police Department, Gonzales Police Officers, Greenfield Police Association, Monterey County Peace Officers' Association.

Burleigh, on the other hand, has won the support of the 10,000-member Teamsters Union local, the Monterey Bay Area Council of Churches, the Carpenter's Union local, and the League of the United Latin American Citizens.

"A great majority of concerned citizens see a lack of firm judicial leadership," Sillman declares in his campaign card. "The time for lenient sentencing is over. We must return to the common sense fundamentals of justice and fairness," not only for the accused, who is already protected, but also for the entire community, including the largely ignored victims and witnesses.

"I am convinced that the court, with a hard-working judge, can be managed in a more effective, less wasteful manner and in a way which will earn our respect and confidence."

Judge Burleigh said, "It's unusual for police agencies not to endorse a prosecutor," and added that most of the endorsements for Sillman "are from agencies that have never been in my court and none of the votes was unanimous."

"I don't know of any of the law enforcement boards or agencies that are against me," Burleigh said. Burleigh noted that Sillman obtained many law enforcement endorsements almost a year ago when he was seeking an appointment to the bench by Gov. Jerry Brown — an appointment which went instead to Maurice Jourdain.

Sillman doesn't dispute that fact, but emphasizes that the same organizations reconsidered his qualifications alongside those of Burleigh before they reaffirmed their support.

"I've never been thought of as a liberal, and I've never been called soft on crime until this campaign," Burleigh told the Pine Cone/Outlook. "Sillman has been unable to point to any leniency in my record. If I was a lenient sentencer, the district attorney's office would have disqualified me. But the DA's office has never disqualified me on any case."

"I've been disqualified hundreds of times by defense lawyers. I have a well-deserved reputation for toughness. There really are no issues in this campaign that I'm aware of."

Sillman said he was upset by Judge Burleigh's handling of a case that involved $8,000 worth of bad checks written by a 22-year-old woman.

SILLMAN said he was disturbed that Judge Burleigh reduced the offense from a felony to a misdemeanor and then disqualified himself from the sentencing.

"The police officers were very disappointed by what happened," Sillman said. "What really bothers me the most is the fact that at the time of sentencing, he disqualified himself causing the case to go to one of the other judges."

"He told one of the deputy district attorneys that the case could be re-filed as a felony. What bothers me is the idea that we should get it back in the system as a felony after the plea was already taken and the fact that he disqualified himself from sentencing."

"Bill Burleigh is as nice a guy as you'll ever meet. He's very courteous, but there are some improvements that can be made through an improved knowledge of the law and an increased workload."

"One of the obligations of a judge is, if they make a decision, they should stick by that decision. Sentencing is merely one aspect of running an effective court."

Sillman acknowledged that he told a meeting of deputy sheriffs he didn't think Judge Burleigh's handling of the case was "appropriate."

Judge Burleigh said it was unethical of Sillman to discuss the case during a campaign, and said he disqualified himself from sentencing to avoid any semblance of impropriety or allegations of partiality for political reasons.

"The defendant was a 22-year-old woman who had been jilted by her wealthy lover," Judge Burleigh said. "He told her to buy anything she wanted and to use their joint checking account. She wrote the $8,000 in bad checks and when the police came she cooperated and $7,500 worth of the property was returned."

"There was complete restitution, and nobody lost anything. It wasn't a state prison type of thing. It was a first offense and it would have been an injustice to sentence her to prison. He mentioned that to show I'm lenient, but he wasn't supposed to mention it at all because I hadn't sentenced her yet."

Burleigh said Sillman is unable to prove allegations that his court is "wasteful" or "inefficient."

"Let him prove it," Burleigh said. "He says I'm lenient and wasteful, but he hasn't advanced any facts to prove it."

Sillman calls petty theft a "serious property crime" that costs everyone about $300 a year more in increased prices.

"Merchants have the right to have some type of deterrent imposed on petty theft," Sillman said. "When someone commits a crime like that they should see the inside of a jail cell from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on the first offense."

Burleigh said his standard sentence for first-time petty theft convictions is a $150 fine or 40 hours of community-service work in a school or hospital if less than $5 is stolen.

ON SECOND offenses of petty theft, Judge Burleigh said he normally sentences the perpetrator to "at least 10 days in jail — jail is what has the big impact."

Burleigh said, however, that most petty thefts are "impulsive, first offenses of less than $5 in value" that don't warrant a jail sentence on first conviction.

In the area of drunk driving cases, Judge Burleigh has earned a reputation as a tough sentencer.

The minimum required penalty for first offense drunk drivers is $375 fine; Judge Burleigh generally imposes a $600 fine on the first conviction, plus 48 hours in jail if the blood alcohol level is .15 or higher, plus 12 hours of alcohol classes and a 90-day restriction on the driver's license.

On the second offense, he levies a $750 fine and sentences the drunk driver to 10 to 20 days in jail and requires attendance at one year of alcohol classes and restricts driving to just job-related travel.

The majority of the cases which Judge Burleigh handles are drunk driving offenses, petty theft, battery, peace disturbance, and traffic violations. Traffic and drunk driving cases constitute the great majority, Burleigh said.

"There is no reason for people to be upset with the court system in this county," Burleigh said. "The public can't pinpoint anything that's wrong."

Burleigh said he is concerned that Sillman has hired Communications Consulting Corp. of Sacramento to run his campaign. It is the same organization used by the Law and Order Campaign Committee to defeat several judges a few years ago, Burleigh said.

"They technique was to send out a mailer just before the election listing a bunch of phony, distorted, or misleading cases decided by the judge in question," Burleigh said.

"They don't point out all the facts in the case. I'm frankly worried that he's going to do this against me."

But Sillman said he has complete control over every piece of literature used in his campaign and asserted that he would not attempt to "torpedo" Burleigh with a last-minute mass mailing.

"I'm going to run a campaign of the highest quality and professionalism," Sillman said. "I approve of everything that goes out. This distortion idea is sadly misplaced. An incumbent judge, if he can stand on his record of performance, has a right to be re-elected."

Sillman points to a study of the criminal jury trial scheduling system in the Monterey Municipal Court by a graduate student at the Naval Postgraduate School, which he said "shows $83,000 was wasted between Jan. 1, 1981 and July 1, 1981 in the three courtrooms in Monterey because of scheduling problems and case load management."

"A SYSTEM has to be worked out so that jurors are not called in when they're not needed, for example," Sillman said. He said his experience as municipal court supervisor with the district attorney's office would help him achieve efficiencies in the court.

But Burleigh maintains that the Naval Postgraduate School study doesn't point to any particular inefficiency in his court, and said the three municipal court judges are, in fact, "doing the work of four judges."

"I'm not putting all the blame on the judges," Sillman explained. "But I can guarantee the taxpayers that they'll get a full day's work. I would like to have people ask their attorneys and police officers what they think of this judicial race, and whether they think Judge Burleigh's courtroom is being run effectively.

"Bill Burleigh is as nice a guy as you'll ever meet. He's very courteous, but there are some improvements that can be made through an improved knowledge of the law and an increased workload."

Burleigh says it's "absurd" that Sillman chose to run with a law enforcement theme, particularly since the crime rate has dropped locally and statewide.

"Misdemeanor crime is down 10 percent in Monterey County from last year," Burleigh said. "That includes battery, prostitution, petty theft, drunk driving. And violent crime is down, statewide. Nationally, all crime is static. I'm a Reagan appointee and a conservative Republican. It's absurd. He's just picked the wrong judge."

Despite the emphasis on law enforcement support, Sillman said he is not strictly a "law and order" candidate, but rather one who would bring a "well-rounded" efficiency to the court.

"I think we can incorporate imaginative kinds of sentencing into the court," Sillman said. "I'm not opposed to volunteer work in the community for things like littering cases, or having the person pick up litter. I don't want to put everybody in jail. I would use judgement about when a person should go to jail. Part of my theme is to run a good court."

Burleigh has used community volunteer work as an alternative form of sentencing for years, and he wrote an article in 1975 "Work for the Community: An Effective Alternative to Jail and/or Fine" in a legal journal.

In a non-partisan race, Sillman brushes aside the apparent incongruity in the fact he is a registered Democrat running this kind of campaign: "I'm not a Democrat. I'm a deputy district attorney who thinks he can do a better job."

Campaign financial disclosure statements filed by the two candidates reveal no large sums of money either collected or spent.

For the period through March 17, Sillman's campaign organization reported contributions of $2,290 and expenditures of $1,954, according to Monterey County Registrar of Voters Ross Underwood.

Burleigh's organization reported contributions of $2,386 and expenditures of $2,404 for the same period. The next financial disclosure statement is due May 27, to cover the period through May 22; another statement must be filed after the June 8 election, Underwood said.

Business BeatSpring brings new flowers, businesses

By FLORENCE MASON

SPRING, in addition to bringing out all the lovely green leaves and flowers we have come to expect, brings a crop of new businesses and new entrepreneurs in Carmel.

I don't suppose all that wonderful rain had anything to do with it, but efflorescence is definitely the word to describe the business scene as well as our fields and gardens.

RICHARD SOELL CHOOSES SPRING IN CARMEL

The new owner of Jack London's restaurant is "the only officer of the corporation and chief dishwasher," Richard Soell, who wanted to be "a real local," will finally complete a long-awaited move from New York to Carmel.

After he takes over the restaurant in "The Mall" on San Carlos at the close of escrow (probably by the time this article appears) he will begin to cut back on another activity and become just a consultant to his public relations firm, Gibbs and Soell. The company has headquarters in New York, with offices in Houston, Chicago and Carmel. Three years ago, Soell bought a home in Carmel and last September he and his wife moved to this area.

Soell told the Business License and Code Review Board that he doesn't plan to make any changes in the restaurant and bar. To underscore that, he said that Mark Jewell, the present manager, will stay on. "I intend to be heavily involved myself," he said as he listened with much interest to Police Chief McGilvray's explanation of responsibilities connected with the sale of alcoholic beverages.

Soell hopes to continue to find time for "lots of tennis" at the Carmel Valley Racquet Club, and might even be encouraged to take up golf again.

He called to tell us that to celebrate his takeover, he will honor all mothers on their special day, next Sunday. Jack London's will serve a special brunch from 11 to 4 and each mother coming in will receive a complimentary corsage and champagne or wine.

WHAT'S BLOSSOMING ON DOLORES NEAR SEVENTH

Behind the covered windows where Jaxon's was located, Ken Schemmel and Jean Mouton have developed interesting plans. Very soon they will open Scandinavian Imports, a shop for embroidery, jewelry, gifts and paintings from Scandinavia, primarily Denmark. And if all goes well and their ultimate plans gain city approval, they'll have a small Danish bakery there.

Schemmel has had the bakery concept in mind for several years. He even has a baker lined up. Some of you may remember Bent Gehring, who worked in Carmel for Sylvia's bakery and moved to Solvang when that store closed. Gehring will come to Carmel and to Schemmel and Mouton's Danish bakery if their plan works out. Schemmel said; "We've just been waiting for the right location, and when Jaxon's became available, we knew that was it."

Schemmel has been in this area six years. Originally, when he worked for Hertz Rent-A-Car, he came here on a promotion and transfer. He was so delighted with the Peninsula that when offered another promotion that would have required a change of location, he turned it down. Since then, "Schemmel Enterprises" has been involved in a variety of business activities here, including the Straw Hat Pizza and a coin video game company which operates out of that store, as well as commercial buildings and homes.

Scandinavian Imports — with optimistic plans for a Danish bakery to come — is a separate partnership with Jean Mouton, owner of the adjacent Swedish restaurant. The two enterprises will be closely related, as Schemmel sees an excellent opportunity to use (not just display) some of the imports in the restaurant.

"There are tremendous European designs on kitchenware and utensils that are not seen in this country," Schemmel said. "While we are doing a feasibility study of the bakery, we'll be bringing some of these things to Carmel. People can see them in use in the restaurant."

Jean Mouton's wife, who is Danish, will help with the selection of merchandise. Pewter and teak are among the materials used in the housewares and kitchen implements.

Schemmel and his wife, Pam, have two children who attend Mission School — Tracy, 10 and Michael, 8.

QUILTS IN BLOOM, ALSO

Union Street is coming to Carmel! Quilts, Ltd., one of the attractive shops on San Francisco's famed street, will locate in the Lobos Lodge court, perhaps as soon as the end of this month.

Patricia Ambrose told the Business License and Code Review Board she will continue to maintain her San Francisco store, even though she plans to live in Carmel "in the near future." She'll employ a local manager.

Quilts, Ltd. will replace La Plage in the court. It's the first shop in from the corner of Ocean and Monte Verde. Inside, Ms. Ambrose will have a wide variety of quilted merchandise — large hand-made quilts, quilts for children, apparel, books related to quilts and quilting.

The apparel is all designed and made just for this shop by Ms. Ambrose and other designers. It is special to her that all the merchandise is American-made; "a cottage industry," she calls it. She'll accommodate special orders, too.

AND IT'S SPRING IN THE COURT OF THE FOUNTAINS

Two names familiar to local antique buyers will be joined by a third and that will mean another new shop for Carmel around June 1. John Keller and H. Lewis Scott will be joined by Grace Elliott and the result will be "Beverly Keller Scott, Inc." in the Court of the Fountains, Mission and Seventh. The new shop will take over the center section of three units formerly occupied by Dick Gorham.

It was Grace Elliott who enlisted the interest of the other two for the new business. Described by Lewis Scott as one of the top silver experts in California, Mrs. Elliott, owner of Beverly Antiques in Los Angeles, bought a home in Carmel several years ago and is looking forward to retirement here. Also a friend of Dick Gorham, she learned that he had to close his antique shop at the Mission Street location. She asked

Keller and Scott if they would like to join her in business here. They agreed with alacrity.

Keller and Scott will continue to operate their antique store on Dolores Street also. They have been in business on the Peninsula for about 27 years, and in Carmel for 12.

The new enterprise — Beverly Keller Scott — will specialize in antique silver, replacements and matching patterns. It will also offer some porcelain.

Good news for local patrons: Maxine Klaput, longtime manager of the Gorham enterprise, will stay on with Beverly Keller Scott.

... AND IN PARADISE ...

Carmel PhotoArt Gallery has a director and a new look.

The director is Valerie Lane, a freelance photographer for UPI while she studied photography in the San Francisco area. Since moving to Carmel, she has been the representative for local photographer Steve Crouch.

The gallery, below the Carmel PhotoArt processing business in Paradise mall, Ocean and Dolores, will exhibit the works of both amateur and professional photographers, Ms. Lane said. The work of local photographers will take precedence.

The new look in the gallery includes texts and fine art photography books, with publications by Friends of Photography. Ms. Lane said that a new bulletin board "will provide a listing of other photography galleries in the area as well as items of interest to the photographer and the collector."

This development comes not long after the Business License and Code Review Board raised questions about an apparently greater emphasis on photo processing than on the gallery, which would be in violation of the company's business license and city zoning regulations. At its March 4 meeting, the board voted to require owners Arnold Bernstein and Martin Fox to produce sales figures for the two sections of the business by May 1 for consideration at the board's meeting today (May 6).

... AND AT THE CROSSROADS ...

Helen Ratto studied furniture and interior design and discovered that she wanted her own business and that top quality would be essential to her. She believes she has found that quality in the merchandise she features in her new store, the Plantation Peddler, and in its location at The Crossroads.

She refers to herself as a perfectionist and said she has wanted to "do a business" for some time. "I love furniture and design and my main interest is American products. When I found what I considered a number one quality source, I started looking for a location and decided that The Crossroads was the one place to be."

The Plantation Peddler will feature "Habersham Plantation's honest furniture," all of which description comes under a trademark. The reproductions are handcrafted, "using the same materials and techniques of workmanship which have been used traditionally by fine craftsmen for centuries." There is more than one style, including American Primitive, Nostalgic America and "today's Romantic country."

In a real sense the store is Helen Ratto's, but her husband, John, is co-owner, supporter and bookkeeper. Ratto's everyday occupation is that of bartender at the Rogue Restaurant in Monterey. The couple came to the Peninsula nearly two years ago, after they lived and worked at Lake Tahoe. They left winter weather behind and looked for a better place in which to raise their son, Jeffery. They bought a home in Pacific Grove. Both golf and John Ratto jogs at least five miles every day.

This is the Rattos' first business venture on their own. Mrs. Ratto is an ex-school teacher who has considerable retail experience, including some in antique stores. She acknowledges that opening The Plantation Peddler is a major event in their lives; it is one for which they felt the time was ripe.

CAREER CHANGES ARE IN THE SPRING AIR TOO

"I've always been interested in people-contact work," Mrs. Dows said, "and I still have a philosophical interest in human services. But with funding problems, problems of organization and management and cuts in federal and state support, it became less satisfying to me to be directly involved in that type of work. I decided to venture into the private area and apply my skills and knowledge of the Peninsula in this different field. It's still one-to-one people contact, which is important to me."

Mrs. Dowd and her husband Pat, who is a counselor at Fitch Junior High School at Fort Ord, live in Carmel Valley. Their children, Andy and Amy, attend Tulareitos School.

OTHER NAMES IN MY NOTES

MARCO POLO'S: the name chosen by Robert McCormick for his Carmel Plaza shop featuring shoes, handbags and O'Rourke has depicted scenes of Sherwood Forest, Robin Hood and Friar Tuck that should make the life-size Friar who inhabits the restaurant feel right at home. On another wall, there is a Carmel village scene in the same warm, vibrant colors.

In his spare time, O'Rourke is writing a book about the area. He is making black and white sketches throughout our town. When it is completed, the book will include more than 500 illustrations.

Carmel beekeeper 'rescues' school from swarm

By MICHAEL R. GARDNER

BILL FOSTER is considered a regular Dudley Do Right in the eyes of some tiny kindergartners and burly construction workers after he came to their rescue when a swarm of bees flew into a construction site at Junipero Serra School.

The modest Carmel resident says the swarm can not be compared to the Dalton Gang, but was more like a docile group of over-fed pussycats.

The bee saga began around noon April 23 when the bees swarmed across the school playground and into a building under construction.

"It was really kind of strange," said school secretary Marie Puccinelli. "The kids were all screaming and playing on the playground when all of a sudden it got quiet. The only time that happens is when somebody gets hurt."

FOSTER LIFTS out a section of the brood to see how his bees are doing. Notice the bare hands.

Mrs. Puccinelli said she went out to the playground and learned that the bees had flown into the construction site.

A call to a pest control firm in Carmel was made but the firm said to contact Foster, who is a beekeeper and property management consultant.

Foster calmly arrived at about 2 p.m. to assess the situation.

"As I saw the problem — the only problem — was the bees were in the building and the building was under construction," he said. "If the building hadn't been under construction, I would have suggested they leave the bees alone and the bees would have left them alone."

Foster explained to school officials that there was nothing to worry about as he calmly brought in a "frame of brood" to lure the bees inside the box-like structure. The next day he came back and carted about 30,000 bees away.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Puccinelli's curiosity got the best of her and she spent parts of the afternoon peeking over Foster's shoulder as he prepared to capture the bees.

"I'm really allergic to them and the next thing you know, I'm right in the middle," she said. "They were like jelly in his hands. It was really an interesting experience. I was fascinated."

ALTHOUGH MANY people fear bees, Foster claims they are actually harmless if you do not disturb them.

"When bees swarm, they are very docile," he said. "They are so full of honey that they couldn't sting you even if they wanted to."

But Foster jokes that there is something to fear.

"The real thing people have to be afraid of in bees is not getting stung by them. The real thing is bee fever," he said.

No, bee fever is not some kind of malaria, but a malady inflicted by the intense curiosity and desire to be around the little critters, he pointed out.

Foster was infected several years ago when his wife, Gretchen, gave him two hives as a birthday surprise.

BILL FOSTER of Carmel says bees are harmless when they swarm because "they are so full of honey they couldn't sting you even if they wanted to." (Photos by Michael R. Gardner)

Foster is not alone: a new organization has been formed called the Peninsula Beekeepers' Association, which has about 25 members.

"Everyone — from experienced people to people who are so novice that they haven't bought their first hive — is welcome," said Foster.

At potluck dinners, the beekeepers swap tales and speakers are invited to lend their expertise on the art, Foster explained.

The group usually meets on the fourth Wednesday of each month at the home of Harold Quentel, 5720 Carmel Valley Road.

More information on the group is available from Quentel at 625-5052 or from Foster at 624-3147.

And how many times has Foster been stung by the bees?

He does not really keep count, but adds: "When you work with electronics you get zapped once in a while. When you sew, you prick your finger with the needle. It's all part of the profession."

Foster does add a helpful hint on how to avoid getting more of the venom in your system if stung. He said most people grasp the stinger and pull it out. This method injects more venom into the system from a little sac at the end of the stinger.

Foster suggests that you take your fingernail and lightly dig underneath the stinger and flick it out. Since the sac is not squeezed, less venom is injected into your system.

Water district to act on plan to manage Carmel River

DIRECTORS of the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District are to decide May 10 whether to proceed with plans for a $150,000-per-year Carmel River management program.

The board of directors is scheduled to hold a public hearing and to take action on the proposal at 7:30 p.m., Monday, May 10 at Monterey City Hall.

"This is the time for the board to decide what kind of a project they want," said Manager Bruce Buel.

A recent survey of Carmel Valley residents indicated support for some type of program to control erosion and sedimentation in the river, stabilize channel banks, regulate the removal of riparian vegetation, monitor groundwater levels, and replant denuded riverbanks.

A committee studied problems associated with the Carmel River and recommended creation of a river management zone and assessment of Carmel Valley property owners to pay 51 percent of program costs. This fee would require voter approval.

The other 49 percent of program costs would be collected through a surcharge levied on water bills throughout the California-American Water Co. system. This surcharge could be imposed without a popular vote.

Estimated costs of the management program are as much as $150,000 per year.

The board of directors will be asked to decide the scope of a river management program — if it decides to undertake the effort — and to authorize preparation of an engineering report on distribution of program costs.

The initial proposal was to assess floodplain and watershed property owners 21 percent of the costs divided by the acreage of their property. Riverfront property owners would pay 30 percent of costs, with fees calculated on the number of linear feet of river frontage of their property. And riverfront property owners would also pay based on their property acreage.

"We will ask the board to define what they want in the program," Buel said. "Then we will proceed with the engineer's report, and schedule a protest hearing in July so that we could schedule the assessment fee for a vote in the November election."

The meeting is open to the public.

League gets into water issues

THE LEAGUE of Women Voters of the Monterey Peninsula is getting into the water act.

After two years of debate and discussion, the local League chapter has voted to get involved in water issues that affect the Monterey Peninsula.

League members adopted a position paper at their annual meeting April 22 which expresses support for water management, conservation and reclamation.

While the general position does not support construction of another dam on the Carmel River, it does not rule it out, either, said Janice O'Brien of Pebble Beach, a member of the committee which drafted the resolution.

"Until now, the League had no position on water except for a peripheral one, through land use," Mrs. O'Brien said. "Now that we have this, we can take positions on water issues."

The first water issue on which the League is likely to take a position is the proposed Carmel River management program, Mrs. O'Brien said.

"This really isn't an anti-dam position, although at the state level the League has felt that dams are probably the least efficient solution to the water problem. Most of the members of the local League feel we should try other methods first; we're very much in support of reclamation and conservation."

The League resolution states that the objective of its position on water is to "insure that short-term options to augment water supply to the peninsula be explored thoroughly in order to extend the time frame for a decision on another dam."

"Alternative options favored: off-site reservoirs, development of new wells in Seaside; reclamation of waste water for use on golf courses, landscaping and agriculture if health standards can be met; conservation techniques; and further exploration of desilting of the existing dam."

The League resolution also calls for "a steady race toward resolution of water supply problems" associated with growth management policies, and support for a periodic review of the water allocation system to achieve equity between governmental entities."

The resolution also deals specifically with water quality, reclamation and reuse, water management and maintenance of "a healthy riparian habitat" on the Carmel River.

CVPOA picnic planned for May 8

Carmel Valley property owners and other local residents will gather from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., May 8 at a family-type barbecue and then consider a proposed management plan for the Carmel River.

The event will be the first family event of its kind sponsored by the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association and will be held on the grounds of the Robles Del Rio Lodge.

A barbecue lunch will be served at poolside where swimming for youngsters and families will be available as well as tennis, jacuzzi, sauna and other Lodge facilities. Luncheon at 12:30 p.m. will be followed at 2 p.m. by a presentation on "Managing and Restoring the Carmel Valley River."

Speakers will be Bruce Buel, manager of the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District, and Dr. Robert Curry of the University of California, Santa Cruz. Curry is the author of a recent study upon which the proposed river management plan is based.

"This is the most ambitious reaching out that CVPOA has made to bring together both members of the association and other interested Valley residents," CVPOA President Richard Dalsemer said.

"We look forward to an enthusiastic turnout of interested citizens." He said CVPOA plans to encourage a town-hall type discussion of river management problems and of other Valley issues.

Price of tickets for the all-day affair, including use of Lodge facilities, is $3 per person. The Valley public is invited. Reservations should be made by May 1 by calling 659-5174 or securing reservation forms at the offices of the Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce.

A grand celebration

By TERRI LEE ROBBE

BAS MITZVAH FOR BREENA HAYMAN

If you've never been to a Bas Mitzvah, you don't know what fun you're missing. Although the event is a serious occasion, it also calls for a grand celebration. And that's exactly what happened when Breena Hayman had her Bas Mitzvah last Saturday.

Breena, the daughter of Marty and Lois Hayman of Carmel Valley, became 13 years of age on March 13, and according to Jewish tradition, 13 is the age when children are recognized as adults. The Bas Mitzvah (it's called Bar Mitzvah for boys) is the ceremony and celebration which marks the occasion.

The very beautiful ceremony was conducted by Rabbi Mark Gross at Congregation Beth Israel Saturday morning. Breena, who says she studied very hard with the Rabbi, wore a beige Indian-style dress for the occasion.

The Big Sur Room at the Hilton Inn in Monterey was gaily decorated in a rainbow theme for the evening celebration party. Hundreds of colorful balloons added to the happy atmosphere as did the cake and candles which graced each of the 14 dining tables.

The 120 guests who attended the Bas Mitzvah and the party filled their plates at the bountiful buffet table.

Entertainment included a performance by magician Jay Malbough and dancing to the music of Jim Glase and Eshkolior.

Special guests included Breena's sister, Danielle, of Carmel Valley, her grandparents, Gus and Bernice Hayman and Mrs.

Florence Bassin — all from Los Angeles — and her aunt and uncle, Ed and Linda Seligman of New York.

Seventy-five of those who participated in the activities were family friends and relatives from Los Angeles who arrived on Friday and were treated to a dinner at the Hayman home that evening.

SMILING for the camera at the reception are Breena and Rabbi Mark Gross who performed the Bas Mitzvah ceremony.

MICHAEL AND CASSANDRA CELEBRATE FIRST ANNIVERSARY

The weather as well as the setting was perfect for the recent celebration held at "Music House," the Carmel Highlands home of Michael and Cassandra Barton.

The affair was in honor of the Barton's first wedding anniversary and all the guests became quite friendly after one or more toasts to the happy couple of a drink called "Buck-Fizz" made of champagne and fresh orange juice.

Some of the guests who wished Michael and Cassandra at least 100 years of happiness were Dr. and Mrs. "Jerry"

BREENA HAYMAN and her parents, Marty and Lois Hayman of Carmel Valley, are all smiles at the reception party given for Breena following her Bas Mitzvah.

BURT REYNOLDS AND CARY GRANT?

Well, one was in town — the other wasn't — but both sound like very charming men. A letter to request an interview with Burt brought a phone call from his secretary, Nancy Streebeck, with a very nice message from the man himself.

Nancy also paid a high compliment to our very own Zantman Galleries. She said that much of Burt's art collection comes from Zantman's. "Quality and price-wise, they have some of the best art to be found anywhere in the world," she said.

Although very few of us saw him, Cary Grant really did arrive in our fair city. His daughter, Jennifer, attends Santa Catalina School, and her dad was here to participate in the school's annual Father-Daughter Weekend.

Saturday's events included various activities and sports events at the school, a barbecue dinner, dancing and a performance of "Kiss Me Kate" by the students for their fathers.

On Sunday, Mass was sung by the students.

SCOTTISH SOCIETY RECEPTION FOR LORD PROVOST MICHAEL KELLY

About 150 members and prospective members of the Scottish Society of the Monterey Peninsula were present at a champagne reception given for Lord Provost Michael Kelly at the Carmel Boy Scout House last Saturday evening.

Kelly — the lord provost (mayor) of Glasgow, Scotland — is visiting the Monterey Peninsula during a tour of California. Hosts for Kelly's visit are the Monterey area members of the Clan Donald U.S.A. Association.

Douglas A. MacChesney of King City, a governor of the Scottish Society and area convenor of the Clan, presented an honorary membership in the Society to the lord provost in Glasgow last spring. He and Mrs. MacChesney were they mayor's official host and hostess during his visit.

Roderick D. Mackey of Monterey is president of the Scottish Society and greeted Kelly at the reception. The lord provost and his party were dinner guests of the Clan Donald members following the reception.

Gordon Craig, deputy president of the Society, was in charge of the receiving line at the reception. His talented wife, Helen, handled the table decorations. The co-chairmen were Mrs. Graeme MacKenzie, Mrs. Loretta McNeil and Mrs. Susan Bernhardt.

Piper was Michel D'Avenu.

YORK MAYFAIRE BALL TO BE GALA AFFAIR

Period costume or formal attire will be the dress for the annual York Mayfaire Ball given by The Parents Club and The Associates of the House of York at the Corral de Tierra County Club on Saturday, May 15.

Times may be a bit hard but more than 150 lords and ladies gladly shell out $50 to be part of this very elegant affair which will include libations, hors d'oeuvres and a sumptuous dinner.

During the cocktail hour, music will be provided by York students under the direction of Master Biff Smith. Following dinner, music for dancing will be provided by the John Daly band.

Chairwoman for the affair is Carol Cech. Her assistants will include Gene and Safa Cicin, who are Parents Club co-presidents; George Brehmer and Ann Bevier.

Pam Henke is entertainment chairman.

Flower arrangements will be by Kiochi Gatanaga. Wine has been donated by three local supporters.

Awards will be presented to outstanding York supporters by Henry Littlefield and Ed Gallwey, board president.

Proceeds from the ball will benefit York School scholarship program.

D'ELEGANCE A SMASHING SUCCESS

Accolades go to the Monterey County Symphony Guild on the tremendous success of their 21st Annual Symphonie d'Elegance. About 300 women (and a few men) attended the popular event which was held recently at the Fort Ord Officers Club.

Twenty-six models, under the direction of Mrs. Donald Hubbard, showed fashions which ranged from bathing suits to glamorous evening wear. Models included the ever-gracious and lovely Virginia Stanton and Maggie Eastwood, who recently closed her Transitions Health Studio.

Fashions were provided by Saks Fifth Avenue.

Chairwoman of the affair was Mrs. Clair Dalton-Gosley, who was assisted by Mrs. Joseph Maffeo.

for a fashion show at the First Presbyterian Church Fellowship Hall in Monterey at 1:30 p.m. May 14.

The event titled "Fashion and Finesse Without Frustration" will present dress-easy fashions designed for women of limited physical abilities.

Fashions will be by Caradine of California. The line is owned by Carole Doolittle, who got the idea for the clothes from her aunt, Mary D., who had multiple sclerosis.

Carole says that in spite of the debilitating progress of the disease, her aunt was always an encouragement to her family.

In 1970, Carole experienced some soreness and swelling in her hands and feet which was diagnosed as rheumatoid arthritis. As she lost strength in her hands and wrists, she looked for ways to compensate. She soon discovered, that although much help is available, there was no specialized ready-to-wear clothing.

She soon came up with the idea to design stylish clothing that looked exactly like existing clothing but which used velcro closures. She decided to manufacture the garments in coordinated colors so wardrobe size could be kept to a minimum.

With the help of her then partner, Diane Spethman, her staff, Ann and Luz, and also the enthusiastic support of her physician, Dr. Robert Reid, the idea was executed. You can see the results at the fashion show.

Those who wish further information should call Joan O'Hara at 373-6664.

BRIDGE-A-THON TO BENEFIT HIDE HIDDEN VALLEY MUSIC SEMINARS

Friends of Hidden Valley will conduct their first Bridge-A-Thon at Hidden Valley Theater in Carmel Valley from 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. May 26.

A fee of $15 ($10 is tax deductible) will include a mini-lunch. Checks should be made out to Bridge-A-Thon HVMS and mailed to Mrs. Perry Moothart, 135 Littlefield Road, Monterey, 93940.

There will be a first prize of $100 and a second prize of $50. For further information call Mrs. Lloyd Breyer or Mrs. Moothart, co-chairwomen of the event.

UNITED NATIONS CHIEF OF PRESS AND PUBLIC RELATIONS TO SPEAK

United Nations Chief of Press and Public Information Joe Byrns Sills will comment on the U.N. Disarmament Conference on Monday, May 17 at 5 p.m. The affair will be held in the Samuel F. Morse Auditorium at the Monterey Institute of International Studies.

The event is co-sponsored by the United Nations Association, Monterey Bay Chapter, and the World Affairs Council. Members and friends will be greeted by students of Professor Wilhelm Weber, their advisor, and local UNA president.

SPINNAKERS TO HAVE SALAD LUNCHEON

The Spinnakers, the women's auxiliary of the Monterey Peninsula Yacht Club will have a "salad luncheon" at the Carmel home of Mrs. Max McKee on Thursday, May 6.

The group, which usually holds a monthly dinner meeting, will forgo the idea this month to expend all of their energies on the Monterey Peninsula Yacht Club birthday celebration.

The birthday bash will be held at the club on May 31 and will include prizes for those bringing the best hor d'oeuvres. President of the Spinnakers is Mrs. Beauford Fisher.

GARDEN PARTY AT TOR HOUSE

The Robinson Jeffers Tor House Foundation will present a Tor House "first" on Saturday, May 8. The Foundation will offer a tour of the magnificent spring gardens at Tor House, which are now in full bloom.

For the small sum of $10, you can enjoy the tour, tea and sandwiches and have your questions about the old world gardens answered by horticulturists. Tor House and Hawk Tower will also be open for informal viewing.

Cuttings from the original herb and flower gardens are being potted and will be offered for sale. Tickets can be purchased at the gate.

Chairwoman for the garden party is Mrs. Joseph Cockran. Her committee includes Mrs. Richard Barrett, Mrs. Alan Griffin, Mrs. John A. McCone, Mrs. Robert G. Fergusson and head gardener Bruce Menzies.

Patricia Hunt is heading up the activities for the Docent Committee for the Garden Party. Her assistant is Agnes Nurnberg.

Mrs. Wayne Kelly will do flower arrangements and Mrs. Donald Borden is in charge of the merchandise offered for sale.

famed photographer Ansel Adams. Although the official birthday was Feb. 20 (and was celebrated in grand style), Ansel continues to enjoy special events given in his honor to mark his birth date.

The latest celebration was a concert by world-famous pianist Vladimir Ashkenazy given in the Adams' Carmel Highlands home last Thursday afternoon. The concert was arranged by Ansel's wife of 54 years, Virginia, and by Mary Alinder, his aide and editor of his autobiography.

Following the two-hour performance many of the 100 or so guests waited to talk with the pianist and have him autograph their programs before gathering in the Adams' front yard to enjoy champagne and a variety of gourmet foods.

Happiness and good health, Ansel!

MR. AND MRS. Philip C. Smith were among those attending the concert at the Ansel Adams Carmel Highlands home.

MUSIC LOVER Sue Dewar congratulated Ashkenazy on a magnificent performance.

ROSARIO MAZZEO chatted with Mrs. Ansel Adams following the concert.

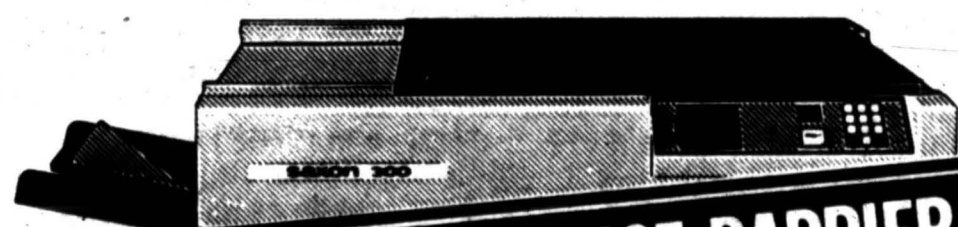

ENJOYING French champagne after the concert are Reg Huston and Velvali De Ayxa.

Minor league girls' softball saw Carmel Plaza split a pair of games this week; Monica Reardon pitched both games. CP dropped the first game to Monterey Intersport 7-2 with Monica collecting both a run and an RBI.

Later in the week CP defeated Herma Smith Curtis 5-3 with Janine Pullen making all the outs in the fourth inning when she caught three fly balls; Jamie Parrish, playing for Herma Smith Curtis, made a great flying catch for the first out of the game. Doubles were hit by Vienna Montgomery-Downes (Carmel Plaza) and Gina Palumbo (Herma Smith Curtis). Those two girls plus Sandy Morris and Richelle Rudinski (Carmel Plaza) all had two or more hits.

Straw Hat, under Megan Hanson's pitching, defeated Cardinal Storage 11-1 in just 55 minutes. The Rubin sisters, Emily and Nancy, combined for six hits along with fine hitting from Tyana Saxby, Hallie Levy and Megan Hanson.

Featured this week is the Pinto league team Hatch Cover, coached by John Northcote and Mike Lewis. Players on this team include: Jonathan Bohlman, Melissa Cardoza, Michael Downing, Free Fargo, Tim Lewis, Adam Mahlum, Stafford Northcote, Jimmie Ritttermal, Brian Sarkin, Alex Stott, Matt Travaille, Joshua Weiner and Andrew Martin.

The older girls had trouble with Fort Ord as Village Inn lost a 11-10 decision; Lori Palma scored three runs. When they faced Palazzolos of Monterey, they lost 9-13. Getting extra bases were: Stacey White, Amy Fuller, Tammi Fuller with Anita Knaus collecting a triple. Kristine Bryson caught a high fly ball in center field, covering second base well was Teri Giammanco.

Bronco league action kept see-sawing back and forth. La Playa took a 12-6 game over Nielsen Market. Paul Wagstaff scored a triple and Rein Wildschut, a double, for the winners behind the pitching of Eric Cederstrom. Hitting well for Nielsens were Bobby Carroll, who picked up a double, Josh Banks, and Robert D'Attilio who both went two for four.

A high-scoring game with lots of hitting saw Derek Rayne emerge on top of Pine Inn 16-14. Each team had an inning of eight runs thanks to doubles by Eric Mahlum and Craig Cox for Derek Rayne and Adam Green for Pine Inn. Among the leading hitters were Shawn Edwards, Christian Cumming for Derek Rayne and Darren Dickerhoof, Jason Lande and Darren Read (who went three for three on five times at bat with two RBIs) for Pine Inn.

Jeff Roberts figured heavily into John Roscelli's 15-7 victory over Nielsen Market. He was the winning pitcher as well as getting three runs. Beau Brushert also got three runs and a double and Jimmy Withershaw picked up a double for Roscelli. Pine Inn came out on top of La Playa 9-7 with some strong hitting on both sides. Doubles were collected by: Jeff LeTowt, Chip Meheen and Rein Wildschut who had two for La Playa.

Pine Inn doubles were: Adam Green, Jason Lande and David Faber. Eric LeTowt made a long throw from third base to get the winning pitcher David Faber out. Lande caught a fly ball over his shoulder and held onto it while falling for another out.

Two double plays figured significantly into La Playa's 11-8 win over John Roscelli. Eric Sincoff caught a fly ball in center field and threw to first for the first double play and then Rein Wildschut threw to third for the second one. Rein had a big day as he also had a double, went two for two and collected three RBIs. Tom White, Ali Monroe and Brandon Kirsch all went two for four wearing Roscelli uniforms.

For La Playa Paul Wagstaff pitched the win, hit a double and was a leading hitter. Craig Cox pitched a no-hitter with only one walk and had three perfect innings to see Derek Rayne score a decisive victory over Nielsen Market 19-2. Eric Mahlum scored a hard hit double and a single along with teammate Brett Ledbetter who had two hits for Derek Rayne.

On the Mustang field the County Mounties took a 10-8 win over Carmel Insurance; Matthew Dickerhoof was the winning pitcher. Scoring triples were Chris Prieto and Don Smyth for the Mounties and Braullio DeAnda for Carmel Insurance. Hitting well for the winners were: Aaron Anderson, Matt Dickerhoof and Rick Prieto. Matt Little, Steve White and Jason Vogelpohl were effective for Carmel Insurance, as was Chip Zug when he caught a fly ball for another out.

Dick Bruhn continued its winning ways when they defeated Motorsports Ltd. of Monterey 5-4. Daniel Kleinhardt was the pitcher of record and adding doubles were Jerry Ledzinsky (Motor Sports) and Andy Rotharmel (Dick Bruhn). Dick Bruhn achieved a shutout when they beat Rudy-Harris 10-0. Jacob Goldman was the winning pitcher with help on the scoreboard from teammates Scott Allen who got a triple and Andy Rotharmel who picked up a double.

In a closer game Orange Julius came out on top of the County Mounties 5-3. Russell Peavey posted the win with lots of extra base hitting from Adam Vesper; Aaron Anderson was instrumental for the Mounties. In another close game which was decided in the last inning, Orange Julius squeezed MotorSports 5-2. In the first inning third baseman Kevin Winton and catcher Michael Parrish put Russell Peavy out in a pickle while he was trying to steal home.

Robbie Takigawa, pitcher, caught a fly and zinged it to first baseman Andrew Hines for a double play. Carlos Moore's double in the fourth drove home Winton to tie the game and then Carlos stole home to put MotorSport ahead by one. Adding to Orange Julius' total were Russell Peavy who went three for three, including two doubles and Tony Spagna's double; Rich Macon also had a pair of doubles for Motor Sports.

A home run by Scott Smith helped Dick Bruhn top Carmel Insurance 12-3; he also pitched the win. Doubles were collected by Bruhn's Danny Kleinhardt and Andy Rotharmel; Matt Little and Jason Vogelpohl did the same for Carmel Insurance with Little getting two other singles as well.

Carmel supports local gas tax

WITH LITTLE discussion, the Carmel City Council has supported a proposal for a local option gasoline tax.

If enacted under recent state legislation, the local tax could provide up to $5 million a year for highway projects in Monterey County — including the Hatton Canyon Freeway in Carmel.

Council members voted unanimously Tuesday to endorse a proposal by the Monterey County Transportation Commission to pursue the possibility of placing such a tax before voters in the November election.

City Administrator Doug Peterson said the question would be placed on the ballot if a majority of the cities in the county, representing a majority of the county population, and the board of supervisors approves.

Approval would have to come from at least two-thirds of the voters in Monterey

Job program

Out of work? You may be eligible for an on-the-job training program.

If you have been unemployed for more than seven days and meet the income criteria, you may be eligible for the job training through the Employment Development Department.

All interested persons are encouraged to contact Suan Harris at the Employment Development Department, 486 Webster Street, Monterey, or phone 373-0143.

County, under terms of Prop. 13, for the tax to be enacted.

The preliminary proposal by the county transportation commission is for a five-cent countywide tax on gasoline and diesel fuel, which would generate about $5 million per year.

A total of $3 million would be set aside as a local contribution toward state highway projects in the county, including construction of the Hatton Canyon Freeway. And $1 million would go to county road projects, with another $1 million for city street systems.

Peterson estimated that if the funds were distributed on a per capita basis among the cities, Carmel would receive about $24,000 per year for maintenance of city streets.

"Obviously, this subject is closely tied to the council's position on the Highway 1 and Hatton Canyon improvement project," Peterson said. "If the council desires to see this roadway constructed, I do not believe it will occur in the absence of this or some other local funding."

Monterey County Public Works Director Bruce Mc-

Clain estimated in a letter to the city council that funds from a local option fuel tax would be available to build the Hatton Canyon Freeway by the 1991-92 fiscal year.

Local contributions from the tax could generate $14.6 million of the estimated $17 million cost for the freeway, McClain estimated.

The Carmel City Council recently wrote to urge the state not to abandon the Hatton Canyon Freeway right-of-way. Peterson said the question of support for the freeway may return to the newly-elected council at its May 18 meeting.

Initiative backers plan massive signature drive

nexation of unincorporated areas of the county from voter approval for the pertinent area plan. The measure would require all area master plans approved by the Monterey Planning Commission to be submitted to voters at the next regular election or at a special election.

The initiative would preclude county approval for subdivisions, use permits, or rezoning of lands within the Greater Monterey Peninsula Planning Area, the Carmel Valley Master Plan Area, the Toro Master Plan Area, and the North Monterey County groundwater pumping area until applicable area plans are approved by voters.

This prohibition would apply because of "unique problems of providing adequate roadways, sewage disposal, water supply and county services" in those areas, according to the petition.

"We plan a massive campaign effort, a blitzkrieg type of approach," Henson said. "We will have group meetings in each of the planning areas prior to the June election, and we'll set up information booths so people can find out about the petition on their way to vote."

Henson said the group plans to present the initiative to the board of supervisors after the signatures are collected, so the board could enact the measure without having an election.

"I doubt that they will," Henson said. "The present board of supervisors seems to think they are more expert in planning matters than even the planning commission."

Other members in VOTE are former Carmel City Councilman Howard Brunn and Friends of Grove Chairwoman Ann Holliday of Carmel. The public is invited to attend the Thursday meeting at the Monterey Library.

Ballet troupe will perform classic 'Romeo and Juliet'

The Carmel Festival of Dance Series will present the new Santa Barbara Ballet production of Romeo and Juliet at 8 p.m. Saturday, May 8 in Sunset Theater, Carmel.

This version of Shakespeare's tragedy, perhaps the most famous love story of all time, was recreated by Keith Martin, former principal dancer of the Royal Ballet and the San Francisco Ballet.

The tale of the star-crossed lovers has been an inspiration for several composers including Tchaikovsky, Gounod, and Berlioz. The most famous score was created by Sergei Prokofiev for whom Romeo and Juliet has become almost a signature piece.

In the 1950s the ballet was composed by Mikhail Lavrovsky for the legendary ballerina, Galina Ulanova, of the Bolshoi Ballet.

Since then, John Cranko created his Romeo and Juliet for the Stuttgart Ballet. This was followed by Kenneth MacMillan's version created for the dynamic team of Nureyev and Fonteyn.

Martin's challenge to create a work which would not be a copy of another version and would be uniquely for the Santa Barbara Ballet has been most successful, according to Tamara Usher, Santa Barbara Ballet artistic director.

The cast has 27 members. The title roles will feature Tishia Hicks dancing Juliet and Thom Lake as Romeo. The lavish Italian Renaissance costumes in velvets and silks were created by Christina Giannini.

The Santa Barbara Ballet is a company of 30 dancers directed by Usher. Elaine Thomas, formerly with the Royal Ballet, is ballet mistress.

The company has a repertoire which includes the full-length classics Giselle and Sleeping Beauty and modern works by Usher, Jean Isaacs and Wayne Davis.

The Santa Barbara Ballet performed Giselle in Carmel last year. Since then, the company has performed at the Spoleto USA Festival of Arts and toured Hawaii and Taiwan in November 1981.

Tickets are $7.75 and $6.75. They are available in advance at the director's office, Sunset Center, or at the box office the night of the performance.

For further information, phone 624-3996.

THE TIMELESS ROMANTIC tale of Romeo and Juliet will be performed by the Santa Barbara Ballet at 8 p.m. Saturday, May 8 at Sunset Theater, Carmel. The cast includes 27 members, featuring Tishia Hicks as Juliet and Thom Lake as Romeo. Keith Martin, former principal dancer of the Royal Ballet and the San Francisco Ballet, has created this version of the famous tragedy.

Delicious dining choices for Mother's Day

MOTHER'S DAY, Sunday, May 9, is the time to honor a special mom. That's what Rachel and Katie Holtman of Carmel Valley (ages 1 and 2½ respectively), plan for their mom, Karen. Father John Holtman is already looking forward to his day in June. (Michael Gardner photo)

SUNDAY IS THE DAY to celebrate all the special things that mothers do. In honor of Mother's Day many Monterey Peninsula restaurants will offer special brunch and dinner menus.

Fresh orchids for the ladies and all the champagne desired will be offered for Mother's Day at The Outrigger, 700 Cannery Row in Monterey.

The Outrigger also will feature a special buffet brunch of fresh fruits and juices, iced shrimp, various salads, honey-glazed ham, roast breast of turkey with all the fixings, scrambled eggs, sauteed chicken livers, snowflake potatoes and fresh vegetables.

Film review:

A lesson in history on screen

By LISA JENSEN

Quest for Fire. With Everett McGill and Rae Dawn Chong. Written by Gerard Brach. Directed by Jean-Jacques Annaud. A Twentieth-Century-Fox release.

Ambitious, kind of silly, but endearing, Quest for Fire portrays a tribe of early Homo sapiens so recently descended from the apes that they still swat bugs out of the air for a quick snack and rely on their keen sense of smell to tell their friends from their enemies.

Yet, as bestial as they are, the protagonists possess that glimmer of dignity and depth of feeling that provide the key to the evolution of the human species. This evolutionary process is the heart of the story, and the filmmakers have spared no expense in bringing it to the screen as realistically as possible.

The story begins with the Ulams, a primitive tribe only about one generation removed from the monolith-crazed apes in the prologue of 2001: A Space Odyssey. The Ulams have already developed stone and bark weapons. They walk reasonably upright, clothe themselves in animal skins and communicate in a limited but effective language of key words, shouts and sighs. They also possess fire, their principal protection against cold, darkness and predatory animals, which they keep lit at all times in a sacred cave.

But the Ulams are attacked by an enemy tribe, and in the confusion of battle, their fire goes out. Now helplessly adrift in a dark, hostile world, the remaining members of the decimated Ulam tribe send a trio of young warriors led by Naoh (Everett McGill) on a mission to seek new fire and restore it to the Ulams.

The quest is a metaphor for the evolutionary journey up from the apes, and, as you might expect, the road to civilization proves to be rocky indeed. The tribal pilgrims constantly have to defend themselves against hostile enemy tribes, and the woods are full of bloodthirsty wolves, bears, sabre-tooth tigers and even woolly mammoths. Naoh and his men also rescue a female, Ika (Rae Dawn Chong), from a band of cannibals. She leads them back to her Ivaka tribe, "Mud people" who paint their bodies with white and blue clay, where the awestruck Ulam warriors finally learn the secret of creating fire.

These details of daily life and developing technical skills are intriguing, but the film is more fun in its disarming treatment of the growth of the human spirit. Naoh's buffoonish companions provide most of the comedy relief, cheerfully dropping rocks on each other's heads and squabbling over food, but it's through Ika that they all discover the catharsis of laughter. Ika is also responsible for teaching Naoh the missionary position, which is fancifully presented as the crucial turning point from instinctive animal sex toward the concept of love and compassion.

And for all the stress on authenticity (author-linguist Anthony Burgess created the prehistoric language, while anthropologist Desmond Morris devised the expressive, early-primate body movement), it's never explained how rocky sea coasts, vast, arid plains and steaming jungles all happen to exist side-by-side within walking distance of the primitive heroes. (The film was beautifully shot on locations in Canada, Scotland and Kenya.)

Quest for Fire isn't magical and ecstatic like Excalibur; it's too earthbound and solemn to burn in the imagination. But on its own terms, it's a modestly entertaining pre-history lesson, and certainly one of the most original films of the season.

What's playing at the movies

Alien: Suspense-filled film about the crew of a space vehicle that tracks down a distress signal to a wrecked spacecraft occupied by mushroom-like creatures. The heroine is played by Sigourney Weaver. Rated R. At Cinema 70.

The Amateur: A suspense espionage thriller. The amateur Charles Heller, played by John Savage, takes matters into his own hands and pursues the terrorists who brutally murdered his girl friend. Heller's pursuit leads him behind the Iron Curtain to a confrontation with the head of Czech intelligence played by Christopher Plummer. Marthe Keller has the sensitive role of a CIA operative in Prague who has little affection for her American employers. The movie is based on Robert Littell's best selling novel. Rated R. At the State Three Cinemas.

Cat People: Remake of the 1942 Jacques-Tourneur cult film. Starring Nastassia Kinski, Malcolm McDowell and John Heard in a surreal erotic fantasy set in New Orleans. Rated R. At the State Three Cinemas.

Charlots of Fire: A wealthy Jewish boy becomes a star runner and a Scots missionary sprints for the glory of God. The two men, driven in different ways, lead England to gold medals and glory in the 1924 Olympics in Paris. Beautifully blended color photography. Starring Ben Cross, Ian Charleson, and Alice Krige. Rated PG. At the Golden Bough.

Christiane F: A far-out film about the teenage drug culture of Berlin, but could be any city in the world, with David Bowie. Rated R. At the Regency.

Clash of the Titans: An adventure about the Greek gods. With Laurence Olivier as Zeus, Maggie Smith, Claire Bloom and Harry Hamlin as Zeus' son Perseus who battles wild beasts. Rated PG. At the Hill Theatre.

Death Trap: An Edgar Wallace mystery filmed in England in 1960. A girl, played by Barbara Shelly, learns her deceased sister drew some money from the bank before her death, but it seems to have disappeared. Albert Lieven also stars. Rated PG. At the Center Cinemas.

Dragonslayer, played by Peter

MacNichol, is a film for all ages. Paramount Pictures and Walt Disney Productions present this spectacular film. At the Hill Theatre.

If You Could See What I Hear: A biographical film on the blind singer Tom Sullivan, focusing on his college years. Starring Marc Singer, R.H. Thompson, Sarah Torgor and Shari Belafonte Harper. At the Center Cinemas.

Nightmare: Rated R. At the Regency.

On Golden Pond: Katharine Hepburn and Henry Fonda offer a story of a couple still passionately in love after 48 years. Jane Fonda plays their daughter. Rated PG. At the Carmel Village Theatre.

Paradise: Wigh Willie Ames and C.B. Cates. Rated R. At the Valley Cinema.

Partners: The oddest team on the squad and the funniest cops in America. Benson is the cop who wants to clean up the streets. His partner just wants to redecorate. Ryan O'Neal and John Hurt portray police officers masquerading as a gay couple in order to track down a homophile killer. At the Center Cinemas.

Personal Best: Mariel Hemingway and Patrice Donnelly play the roles of women competing for the U.S. Olympics track and field team. Their performances have a deep feeling of honesty. The track and field events are captured with amazing sensuousness. Rated R. At the State Three Cinemas.

Porky's: A ribald comedy of adolescence in the '50's directed by Bob Clark. The title is derived from the name of a notorious redneck dive to which six teenagers are hypnotically drawn in the belief that they can purchase carnal experience on its premises. A youthful comedy which is a showcase for the six talented actors. Rated R. At the State Three Cinemas.

Quest for Fire: If you loved Chewbacca, you'll go ape over Naoh, Gau and Ika in this film. A story about early man and our beginning. Many strange beasts of prehistoric times such as vicious saber-toothed tigers and Indian elephants. There are some scenes to make you laugh, whether intentional or not. Rated PG. At the Cinema 70.

Rocky Horror Picture Show: A movie about two teenagers and a transvestite from another planet. Fri. and Sat. midnight show. At the Dream Theatre.

Tape: Timothy Hutton and George C. Scott co-star in the powerful contemporary drama of a group of young cadets who defend the military academy that is their home when outside authorities threaten to shut it down. At the State Three Cinemas.

Victor Victoria: Romantic comedy set in the 1930's Paris. Julie Andrews stars as a down-on-her-luck singer and James Garner as a tough Chicago nightclub owner, with Robert Preston, Lesley Ann Warren and Alex Karras. Rated PG. At the Dream Theatre.

Duo will present dulcimer concert, workshops

Bonnie Carol and Mark Nelson will perform hot licks, fiddle tunes and folk songs on mountain dulcimers at 8 p.m. Thursday, May 6. The duo will also present a special concert for children at 4 p.m. Thursday, May 13, and two dulcimer workshops. The concerts and the workshops will be given at Cherry Hall, Guadalupe and Fourth, Carmel.

Carol is a recognized authority on dulcimer building and a leader in contemporary dulcimer playing. She has been making, playing and teaching dulcimer for 10 years. Her highly advanced playing style encompasses music as diverse as traditional American folk songs, the songs of Broadway and her own compositions.

Carol has recorded two albums. One, The Pacific Rim Dulcimer Project, is an anthology of progressive dulcimer music and was named Folk Album of the Month on Berlin Radio in 1980.

Carol has written numerous articles on the dulcimer for several national publications. Her book, Dust Off That Dulcimer and Dance, is scheduled for publication in the fall.

Nelson performs music from the Great Basin as well as dance music from England, Ireland and America on a variety of instruments including American and European dulcimers, guitar, mandolin and bodhran, an Irish drum. He has performed extensively on both sides of the Atlantic and has released an album.

Together, Carol and Nelson present a varied and exciting concert for dulcimer players and lovers of traditional music. They have often worked together at festivals and in 1979 toured the Midwest and South.

They have been in residence at the Ozark Folk Life Center, the Denver Folk Center and the Museum of Westward Expansion in St. Louis. Between them, they bring years of experience in teaching and performing on this deceptively simple instrument.

Cost for the May 6 concert is $5. Tickets for the children's concert are $2 for children and $5 for adults. Tickets are available at Recycled Records, 604 Lighthouse, Monterey, and at the Cherry Hall.

In addition to the concerts, the twosome will present two workshops on May 13 at Cherry Hall. Beginning dulcimer will be taught from 7-8:30 p.m.; intermediate/advanced dulcimer will be taught from 8:30-10 p.m.

Cost is $8 for one workshop and $14 for both.

For reservations, phone 624-7491.

HOT LICKS, FIDDLE TUNES, and folk songs will be performed on a mountain dulcimer by Bonnie Carol, a recognized authority on dulcimer building and a leader in contemporary dulcimer playing, at 8 p.m. tonight, Thursday May 6 at Cherry Hall in Carmel. Mark Nelson, former national dulcimer champion, and multi-instrumentalist, will join Carol. The twosome will also present a special concert for children at 4 p.m. Thursday, May 13.

Altman works will be exhibited at Atelier Galerie

The works of Harold Altman, renowned printmaker of the European park scene, will be featured in an exhibition at the Atelier Galerie. The exhibition will open with a reception for the artist from 3-6 p.m. Saturday, May 8 at the gallery, Dolores and Sixth, Carmel.

Altman began working with human figures against backgrounds of foliage about 1960. He felt encouraged to continue when the Museum of Modern Art in New York purchased an edition of 75 prints.

In 1964, when a Fulbright-Hayes research grant took him to Paris, those natural backgrounds gradually succumbed to the influence of the manicured and orderly Parisian park, a decidedly more refined version of American park scenes.

At the same time, Altman's works which were populated with many family members, became the setting for strangers, those who visit the parks of Paris in search of solitude, a chance encounter or a tele a tele with friends.

It is a subject the artist finds continually stimulating. "I think why I've deliberately limited myself (is that) I find so many, many ways to say something with the same things," says Altman.

Altman was born in New York in 1924. He attended the Art Students League, Black Mountain College, the Academie de la Grande Chaumiere in Paris and graduated from the Cooper Union Art School.

Altman has had numerous one-man exhibitions of his work in museums and galleries throughout the United States,

Europe and Mexico. His awards and fellowships include a Tamarind Lithography Workshop Fellowship, two Guggenheim Fellowships, a National Institute of Arts and Letters grant and a Fulbright-Hayes senior research scholar fellowship to France.

Altman will be present at the reception. He will autograph a limited number of posters.

The exhibition will run through May 22. The Atelier Galerie is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

For further information, phone 624-1900.

FIGURES AGAINST a background of foliage are characteristic of works by renowned printmaker Harold Altman. November 1981 III is included in a collection of Altman's work to be exhibited in a one-man show which opens Saturday, May 8 at Atelier Galerie, Dolores and Sixth, Carmel. Altman will be present at an opening reception from 3-6 p.m. Saturday at the gallery.

On stage

The Staff Players Repertory Company stages George Bernard Shaw's classic comedy, Androcles and the Lion. This play is a glorious exploration of early Christianity in the Roman Empire. Shaw has a great deal to say about conversion, confusion and turning the other cheek.

Androcles and the Lion is presented at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Indoor Forest Theatre, Santa Rita and Mountain View, Carmel. There will be a matinee at 2 p.m. Sunday, May 16.

Tickets are $5 general and $3 students and seniors. Seating is limited. For reservations, phone 624-1531.

California's First Theater brings the fun and good humor of melodrama to the stage with From Rags to Riches. The audience is encouraged to boo and hiss the villain and cheer the hero as he rescues the damsel in distress! This 19th century production is performed by the Troupers of the Gold Coast.

Showtime is 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday throughout May. Admission is $4 adults, $3 teens and, on Friday, $2 for subteens.

Tickets may be purchased at the First Theater, Scott and Pacific streets, Monterey, after 1 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday. For further information, phone 375-4916.

The Hartnell College Theatre Department stages the Russian play, He Who Gets Slapped, by Leonold Andreyev at 8 p.m. in the Main Stage on campus, 156 Homestead, Salinas.

He Who Gets Slapped is the story of an upper class man who tires of the hypocrisy of society. He becomes the much-buffed clown in a circus and falls in love with a bareback rider.

The play is performed Thursday through Saturday, May 6-8.

Admission is $2.50 adults and $1.50 students. Seating is limited. For reservations, phone 1-758-1221.

The Wool Gatherer, a compelling drama by William Mastrosimone, is staged at Cherry Hall, Guadalupe and Fourth, Carmel. Set in a bleak, barely furnished flat, the play centers around the relationship of a young girl and a homeless young truck driver.

The Wool Gatherer is presented at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Tickets are $4.50 general and $2.50 students and seniors. Due to its forthright language, The Wool Gatherer is recommended for mature audiences.

For further information, phone 624-7491.

The Wharf Theater stages Gypsy, the first production of its spring/summer season. The musical is based on the life of famed burlesque performer Gypsy Rose Lee.

Painted against the dark reality of a dying vaudeville and the social ruin of the Depression, Gypsy is a glittering tale of Depression-time dreams for the future that captures humor, pathos, heartbreak and triumph.

Gypsy will be presented Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays through May 9. Curtain time is 8:30 Fridays and Saturdays, and 8 p.m. Sundays.

Tickets are $8 and $6. The Wharf Theater is located on Old Fisherman's Wharf, Monterey.

For more information, phone 372-2882.

Hidden Valley Music Seminars presents the musical comedy, The Fantasticks, at 8 p.m. Off-Broadway's longest-running musical, the show captivates audiences with its tender, sweet romance and high-spirited fun.

The Fantasticks will be performed through May 16 at the Hidden Valley Theatre, Carmel Valley Rd., Carmel Valley. Performances are at 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, and at 2:30 p.m. Sundays.

Tickets are $10 adults and $8 children.

For further information, phone 659-3115.

The emergence of dance

By RICHARD TYLER

IT IS HARD to believe, but true; 15 years ago you could count the number of professional dance companies in this country on your fingers and toes.

You also knew where to find most of them — in New York with their small but devoted audiences. Today hundreds of dance companies are thriving, from Moscow, Idaho to Miami, Florida, and audiences are estimated in the tens of millions.

Dance has become so much a part of the arts and the entertainment industry it is difficult to image a time when dance was a limited art form with an elite audience.

The growth of dance during the past 15 years represents an unprecedented creative explosion in this art form. It is widely recognized that America is the center of dance activity in the world and that many of the best choreographers and dancers currently work in this country.

Artists such as George Balanchine, Martha Graham, Jerome Robbins, Paul Taylor and Merce Cunningham, among others, are familiar names primarily responsible for this notoriety. Just as important to America's current stature as the world leader in dance, however, are the generations of choreographers to follow these giants, many of whom now have their own dance companies or who choreograph and work solo.

The availability of high-quality dance companies of all types has never been better. A fundamental aspect of the dance industry is that dance companies tour. Not all companies choose or need to tour nationwide, but most companies engage in some touring activity during their performance season. During the past decade dance companies have sprung up all over the country.

Nearly every major and medium-sized city boasts at least one ballet company, and most major cities have modern dance companies, ethnic groups or other varieties of dance companies. Many of them go on to worldwide recognition. One such company will appear at Sunset Center, Saturday, May 8.

"The larger and more metropolitan a city, the better the art they say. So it may come as a surprise to many to discover that Santa Barbara, a weekend spot for tired Los Angelenos, has an extremely attractive ballet company." So wrote Gillian Rees in a Dance West Magazine review of the Santa Barbara Ballet. Audiences as well have acclaimed these "bright and youthful dancers" wherever they have appeared. In Charleston, S.C. at the Spoleto USA Festival and in Taiwan and Hawaii, where they toured last November, as well as all over California.

Santa Barbara Ballet will present a new full length production of Keith Martin's Romeo and Juliet in the Sunset Theater at 8 p.m. for one performance only. This ballet will close the Festival of Dance series for 1981-82. Conceived with a spirit of adventure, the company of 28 dancers, under the direction of Tamara Usher, exhibits an instantly recognizable style plus a joy in performance combined with a sense of theatrical flair that is unmistakable and very engaging. This philosophy is the unifying element which defines the artistic style of the company and binds together the dancers, many of whom joined the Santa Barbara Ballet from other companies and schools.

San Francisco Dance News critic Renee Renouf writes of the Santa Barbara Ballet production: "It shines with a sense of style and period... the line and port de bras is crisp and spirited and the dancers work as an ensemble with a collective will some major companies might well emulate."

Featured in the lead roles of Romeo and Juliet are Thom Lake, formerly with the North Carolina Dance Theater, and Tishia Hicks, former soloist with the Irish Ballet, the San Diego Ballet and the Pittsburgh Ballet. Tickets for this full scale production in three acts danced to a score by Sergei Prokofiev are available at the director's office in Sunset Center. For more information call 624-3996.

PARKING, which has always been a problem, is a particular one for Sunset Center.

Many residents find it difficult to park within the areas of the center and make decisions not to attend when they have to look for parking places in the residential areas surrounding the center. The General Plan Committee is giving consideration to this problem and will probably make recommendations to the City Council.

The commitment of the city to this building as the cultural center for the community is a very important part of the general plan and must be realized fully. The growth of cultural involvement continues throughout the country and we must plan for proper usage of the building and the space surrounding it. We must plan for the future of our special and unique environment.

The socio-cultural element can be realized if all residents who participate or attend events at the Sunset Center would offer their thoughts and time to the meetings now being held at the Council Chambers in City Hall for the purpose of writing a General Plan by which we can live for the next many years.

Music Corner

A very special private concert

By LYN BRONSON

THIS WAS a week when two eminent pianists appeared on the Monterey Peninsula — one in a series of public concerts heard by several thousand and the other in a private gathering for only a handful of people.

The public appearance was, of course, Leonard Pennario last Sunday at King Hall at the Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey, returning once again as soloist with the Monterey County Symphony to play the Beethoven Fourth Piano Concerto.

The Beethoven Fourth is a very special work, much more difficult than the Fifth, known as the "Emperor." The Fourth bristles with awkward passages written for a more delicate instrument than the modern concert piano which is more suited for Tchaikovsky and Rachmaninoff concertos. There is also enormous subtlety in the ensemble writing, and many passages which sound easy are in reality quite difficult.

There are various approaches to a performance of this concerto. Some view it as a large-scaled ensemble work with the piano and orchestra equal partners having ample opportunity to accompany each other and to enjoy moments of solo prominence.

Diametrically opposed to this is the virtuoso approach with the piano in dramatic opposition to the orchestra. A variant the virtuoso approach might be called the "Hollywood Bowl approach." This last school of playing is based on the assumption that the acoustics (usually outdoors) are atrocious and the audience is none too sophisticated, thus the soloist tends toward overly fast, loud playing — and subtlety is replaced by the grand gesture.

Anyone who meets Pennario in person cannot help but be impressed by his gentleness, sincerity and refinement. But when he is seated at the piano, he seems to be saying, not "I am a musician and I am going to play some beautiful music," but, rather, "I am a concert pianist, and I am going to play loud and fast to impress you."

Thus, the essential problem with the Beethoven concerto was that Pennario's patrician appearance and gentle nature was at odds with his desire to play the role of the virtuoso. Someone once said that the moment a performer begins to show off, the music immediately suffers. Artur Schnabel put it another way: "The performer is a tour guide, and he must never get in the way of the view."

But show off and get in the way of the view he did, and the music did suffer. That it doesn't have to be this way goes without saying, for Mr. Pennario proved to the world that he had earned the title of virtuoso more than 40 years ago. There is simply nothing he cannot play and play well if he wishes.

Perhaps Pennario has correctly gauged his audience, for he returned to race his way through two encores — a coarse performance of Schumann's Widmung, arranged by Liszt, and a loud, vulgar, none-too-neat rendition of The Banjo by Louis Moreau Gottschalk — this is the kind of performance which gives Gottschalk a bad reputation. The audience loved it. Chalk one up for the "Hollywood Bowl" approach to piano playing.

AS FOR THE rest of this all-Beethoven concert, Maestro Haymo Tauber opened the program with the Prometheus Overture, which, although one of Beethoven's minor works, was an effective curtain-raiser.

The glory of the evening was the Eroica Symphony, heard after intermission. The Monterey County Symphony never sounded better. We heard some very good string playing, and the principal solos were equally fine. It was a pleasure to hear music making on this high level, and it was so good I never wanted the symphony to end.

Available at the concert were brochures announcing next year's season, which looks to be excellent. And still to come later this month is the Monterey County Symphony's annual pops concert. Don't miss it.

The great Russian pianist Vladimir Ashkenazy was in Carmel briefly last week to play an informal afternoon recital in the Carmel Highlands home of famed photographer Ansel Adams in front of a small number of invited guests.

Members of the press were not invited because it was a private celebration of Adams' 80th birthday and only intended to be shared with some intimate friends.

One of the most remarkable aspects of this very private concert is that it happened at all, for Ashkenazy had never played in a private home before. Ashkenazy is not exactly a media pop superstar, and you are unlikely to see him on television preparing his favorite gourmet meal, playing tennis with celebrities, chatting with Johnny Carson on the Tonight Show, or appearing in commercials to extol the benefits of owning a complete set of a certain encyclopedia.

Ashkenazy is an artist of enormous integrity. By nature a shy rather than flamboyant person, he lets his playing express it all, and when he plays there is never an unnecessary facial expression or arm motion. He reached the top of his profession at the age of 21 and he has maintained this uninterrupted preeminence for 24 years.

His record sales are legendary, his repertoire is unending and his consistency and evenness over the years is nothing short of remarkable.

Consequently, Ashkenazy's concert fees are among the highest in the world, and he could have easily demanded a $15,000 fee for playing a 75-minute recital at the Adams home.

In fact, nothing of the sort happened. He actually played gratis as a birthday tribute to Ansel Adams. In a profession where there is much greediness, this is a beautiful gesture. I am told that Adams matched the gesture by presenting Ashkenazy with signed prints of two of his finest works — Moonrise Over Hernandez and Aspens.

It is a pity that the event could not be enjoyed by more people, but, of course, the intimacy of the smaller audience must have made it even more memorable for the lucky few.

Women on Wine inaugural meeting

The inaugural meeting of the Monterey County Chapter of Women on Wine (WOW) will begin at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, May 6 at the Firehouse Restaurant, 414 Calle Principal, Monterey. Ladies' Choice: The Wines of Monterey County will be the theme.

WOW, a non-profit organization, is devoted to the appreciation and education of the wine consumer and the wine industry featuring a special focus on women for women. Barbara Baker, founder of WOW, will speak about the organization and answer questions.

Representatives of eight wineries from Monterey County will pour wine, talk about the wine, and answer questions. Tickets are $12.50. Seating is limited.

For reservations, write Women on Wine, P.O. Box 327, Monterey, CA 93942 or phone 372-7244.

The miracle of birth

By JUDITH A. EISNER

WE WITNESSED the miracle of birth the other day and thought we would share it with our readers.

Our 16-year-old broodmare was drawing close to term about a week ago and we began to keep a sharper eye on her. This would be her second foal and we expected that once things started happening, they'd happen fast.

Sunday evening, we prepared a simple obstetrical kit: a half dozen clean towels, a pair of sharp scissors, about 12 feet of twine and a bottle of 7 percent iodine (for cauterizing the umbilical stump). The foaling stall was ready and the mare had spent the past two weeks in there at night; now, we left her under floodlights to accustom her to them.

By Monday evening, we felt she was getting very close. Tuesday afternoon, however, she began to give definite signs, including streaming milk from her udder and acting restless. We checked on her about 7 p.m. Tuesday and arranged for a friend to re-check at 9 p.m. We came back by 11 p.m. and decided this was the night!

(Several other people must have felt the same way, for they were cuddled up under sleeping bags and horse blankets on a stack of straw opposite the foaling stall.)

MARES HAVE DROPPED their foals in the wild (and in pastures and elegant Kentucky box stalls) without assistance for centuries. But there is an adage among horse breeders that says a mare either needs no assistance or is in big trouble and needs immediate help. For that reason, we prefer to be present at the birth, if possible.

We picked out the stall, wrapped the mare's tail in a sterile bandage and left her contentedly munching hay. Waiting up all night can be lonely, so we welcomed the company who shared our vigil and their taking turns to peek in on the mare.

By 3 a.m. we were sagging fast. The mare either munched hay or indicated discomfort by stamping her hind leg sharply and pacing around the stall. Then she'd go back to eating. Sometime during the night she even curled up and cat-napped for a few minutes.

We set an alarm and rolled up in a sleeping bag for a brief doze, awoke to check the mare, dozed again. By 5 a.m., however, the roosters began to crow and we figured we'd been fooled. The sneaky old mare wasn't going to foal that night after all!

Three hours of sleep is better than none, we decided, and headed for home. And no sooner had we touched head to pillow than the phone rang: "Come quick!" the excited voice cried. "She's in labor!"

BACK AT THE RANCH the mare was, in fact, beginning her delivery in the normal manner; two forefeet had emerged, followed shortly by the baby's nose.

This was a good birth and within minutes the foal's head emerged. At that point, we slipped into the stall to cut the amniotic sac so the baby could begin to breathe on its own. Very shortly thereafter, the whole baby was on the ground and we discovered it was a filly as we bent to anoint its navel with iodine.

Mother and daughter rested a while, as Nature intends, while we towed the warm, wet foal dry. Stepping back we were fortunate to catch a special moment. Curled around to look at her foal, our mare let out a low, throaty nicker to which the baby responded. It always reminds us of Christmas morning at that moment.

Within an hour, baby was bouncing around the stall and figuring out where breakfast came from while our good, calm mare was enjoying a well-earned bran mash.

Miracles do happen.

NEWLY LISTED "CROSSROADS"

CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA

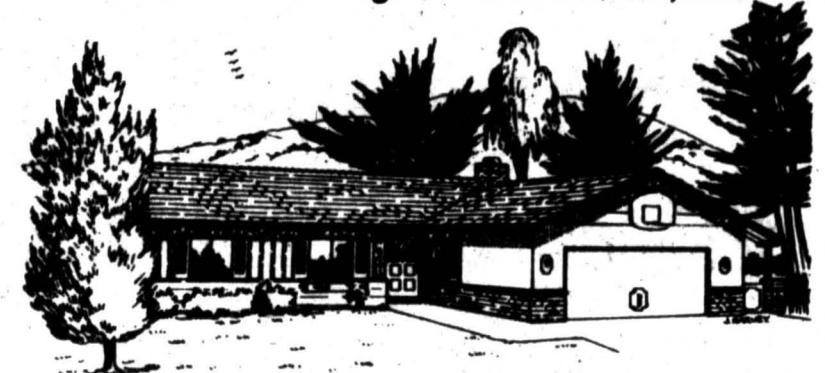

Start with the location...a choice corner lot, just a few blocks south of Ocean Avenue. Place on it a beautifully maintained four bedroom, three bath English Tudor of Carmel Stone, with its dining room and bedrooms looking out on a private, sunny patio.

The Guest Quarters, in the upper level, has its own private entrance. It consists of a very comfortable living room, bedroom, dining area and bath. It is all surrounded by easily maintained gardens. This is truly Carmel living in the finest tradition! $495,000.

PRIME SOUTH OF OCEAN AVE., CARMEL

The winding Carmel Stone walkway leads to this redwood home, as well as to the greenhouse. (Perhaps an artist's studio??) Situated on a delightful oak-studded site one block to the Plaza in downtown Carmel, yet a world apart in privacy on a DOUBLE lot south of ocean Avenue. In addition to the two bedrooms, two full baths, a large living room, and formal dining room, there is a loft-study which might be used for sleeping, with an ocean view. A good value at $285,000.

$137,500 IN CARMEL — the most for the least

A four bedroom, two bath home in Carmel, priced at $137,500 seems too good to be true — and this rare find can't last long! Living space and grounds are meticulously maintained, and are in move-in condition! Sunny location within walking distance to every convenience. Assumable long-term financing — the most house for the money at $137,500.

NEW CARMEL VALLEY COUNTRY HOME & ACREAGE

Well-situated on an all usable one acre view site, this uniquely functional new residence incorporates every energy-conscious and quality amenity. The home was designed around a large central courtyard, and features three separate bedroom suites and abundant storage. Kitchen, living room with dramatic stone fireplace, and dining room have a "natural flow" for gracious entertaining or family living. Reduced to $385,000 with owner financing.

A Touch of Spain in Carmel

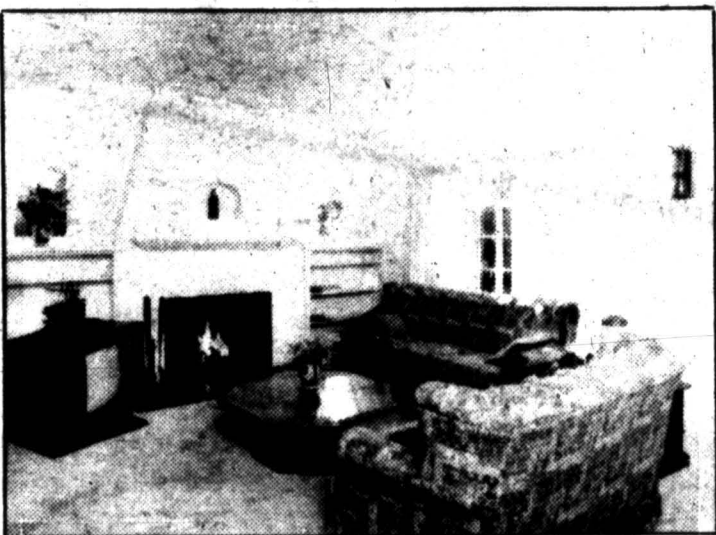

The arch was very popular when this house was built. There are no less than 5 arched doorways beckoning you from place to place: the front door, door to the den, the corridor, the bath and the dining room. In addition, there's an arched recess above the dining room buffet, and still another that spans the window above the kitchen sink.

The exterior is in the Spanish tradition: white old-style stucco (hard as stone), authentic tile roof, ceramic tiled landings at front, side and rear. Arches again are an important part of the exterior decor; and broad shelves for plant pots underline the front windows.

Inside, all is creamy white. The living room ceiling rises in a modified arch, and at the far end a lovely white fireplace rises to the ceiling. There are shelves at either side and bright windows above them.

The dining room opens through a double doorway as you go back. Its ceiling is gently domed; casement windows and a door to the drive line the south wall, and other doorways lead to kitchen and the bedroom corridor.

Every room in the house is carpeted in a soft doeskin deep pile. The kitchen floor is newly laid vinyl tile. Appliances are set apart in comfortable nooks, and a service bar provides an attractive breakfast setting. A back door opens under an overhang to a very private paved patio, set just apart from the detached garage.

There are 2 good-sized bedrooms ranged along a corridor on the north side of the house. Between them is a comfortable, carpeted bath with tub and shower. A real bonus is the small den on the northwest corner, just off the living room. It's a charming spot with casement windows looking toward the street and two lovely pines in the front yard.

They don't make cabinets like they used to. Everywhere there's a chance, there's a cabinet. And there's additional storage in the small basement.

The house has been repainted recently, inside and out, and it's in perfect condition. A very solid home with much natural charm and opportunities to add your own touches. It's on Lincoln, several blocks south of Ocean, in easy distance of town and beach. Reduced to $235,000

Carmel Valley

In La Rancheria and with privacy protected by an acre and a half site, this contemporary home with cedar exterior and a shake roof, also designed for indoor and outdoor enjoyment, features window walls framing hill view and opening to oak-shaded terraces or a sundrenched deck containing a hot tub.

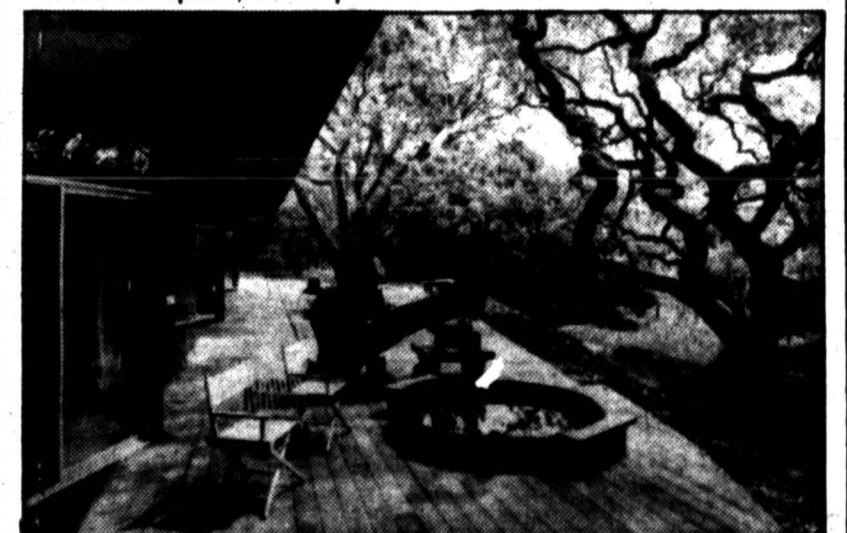

Indirect lighting attractively illuminates a vaulted ceiling of wood in the paneled living room further enhanced by slate and hardwood flooring and a handsome fireplace dramatically combining stonework with a burnished copper hood.

A stone and copper fireplace also graces the slate-floored, paneled family/dining room with a vaulted ceiling of wood.

Sharing the fireplace serving as separation from the adjacent family/dining room, the skylighted, custom kitchen has breakfast space, an ample amount of counters and cabinets.

With a window wall opening to the hot tub deck, the master suite has the vaulted ceiling and wood paneling found all through the interior, and also features built-in bookcases and counters in the study space off its bath/dressing area. Three more paneled and carpeted bedrooms with sliding glass doors opening to patios; another full bath; a half-bath; and a laundry room are encompassed in the 2,800 sq. ft. interior of this home with a design admirably adapted to environment.

SURPRISE PARTY

Hilda and Helen Hilliard were tendered a surprise party at their home on Saturday night. It was a real surprise, too. The girls couldn't understand why they were not allowed to go to the movie show, but they found out later. Those present were: Grace Wickham, Elizabeth and Maryan Hopper, Louise and David Prince, Phyllis Overstreet, Arline Payne, Franklin Murphy, Thomas and Andrew Gillett, Kenneth Goold, Philip Williams and Helen Hicks.

YOUNGSTERS OVERCOME BY FIRE RESCUED FROM BURNING HOUSE

Two Carmel youngsters narrowly escaped death from suffocation Monday afternoon when a fire suddenly broke out in the house they had been locked in while their mother went out shopping.

The two youngsters, Howard, two and Robert, three, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph DeAmaral, were overcome by the smoke and were taken out of the house unconscious and rushed to the Carmel hospital.

Here in inhalator of the Carmel Fire Department had to be used for fifteen minutes on Howard before the youngster was finally revived. The two youngsters remained at the hospital for two days and were attended by Dr. John Gray.

But for the fact that J.O. Handley, an official of M.J. Murphy, Inc., was driving on Guadalupe Street, where the house is located, the two youngsters might have succumbed before aid reached them. Handley noticed the smoke, broke the door of the house down, rescued the two youngsters and then rushed them to the Carmel hospital.

The Carmel Fire Department which responded to the call quickly extinguished the blaze before any damage had occurred. According to Fire Chief Robert Leidig, the blaze was caused by a blanket placed alongside a gas stove.

As a result of the narrow escape of the two youngsters, Fire Chief Leidig is warning parents and particularly mothers against leaving homes with doors locked. He pointed out that if the two DeAmaral boys had not been rescued so quickly, they might have succumbed in the burning structure before aid reached them.

CARMEL MERCHANTS TAKE FOURTH STRAIGHT

Managers Paul Artellan and Don Sands of the Carmel Merchants have their squad on a four-game winning streak after defeating the Navy School 1-2, Seaside 4-1, Shirley's 4-2, and Marina 4-3.

Johnny DeAmaral and Paul Ricketson have shown up very well on the pitcher's mound so far. Walt Frey, Bill Conlan, Neno Aiello, and newcomer Peter Fisher have been playing some outstanding ball in the previous games for the Merchants.

PARENTS, FRIENDS PITCH IN AFTER RIVER SCHOOL FIRE

Friday night there was a fire in Kay Goines' kindergarten classroom at River School which completely gutted the room and caused smoke damage to the two adjoining classrooms.

Dr. Harris Taylor, Superintendent of Schools, stayed with the firemen from 7:30 p.m. until past midnight when the last of the smoldering pieces was extinguished.

By Monday morning, the smoke-damaged classrooms had been sufficiently cleaned to be "operable" and Mrs. Goines and her students were set up in the Cafeteria, thanks to lots of week-end efforts by many Carmelites.

Damage has been estimated between $5,000 and $10,000 but as Dr. Taylor says, "We have a $5,000 deductible fire insurance policy, so it will cost the district that much no matter what the bids may be."

The fire department believes the cause of the fire was a hot plate which had been left on.

MACOMBER HOUSE FIRE

Over 300 feet of hose stretched from a single hydrant a quarter-mile from the house. Some 10,000 gallons of water was sprayed on surrounding pines and grassy areas to keep the fire from spreading.

No efforts were made to save the house itself. According to firemen, there simply was nothing left to save.

CARMEL VALLEY'S "GOOD EGGS"

The Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce held its 23rd Annual Installation Dinner last Friday at the Rancho Canada Golf Club, honoring three valley "Good Eggs."

The giving of "Good Eggs" as community service awards was suggested by the first chamber president, Byington Ford, in 1954, the year that the Chamber of Commerce was founded. The award is given to persons who have made an outstanding contribution to our Carmel Valley. These citizens are selected by a committee composed of award winners from previous years. In some years the Chamber has given only one "Good Egg" and in other years, as many as six.

Honored this year were Larry Busick, who voluntarily served for 10 years on both the Fire Department and first aid crew. In addition he has helped our young people by umpiring in the Little League for 14 years and serving as a team manager.

Mildred Hatton, who while raising five children, has found time to contribute countless hours to our community. Some of the organizations in which she has been a leader include the Carmel Valley Fire Department Auxiliary, Little League, 4 H-Club, Carmel Barracuda Swim Team, Cub Scouts and the Community Center. She has been active in school fund raising activities as well as chaperoning trips and writing a regular column for local newspapers covering Carmel Valley news.

George Corrigan began his career of public service in 1955 in the Carmel Valley Post Office. Since that time, his patience, kindness, understanding and willingness to help each postal customer has enriched the lives of everyone who has had the privilege of being served by him. This year he is retiring after 22 years of service and will be truly missed by all. He is a shining example of what one man can do to make the world a better place to live in.
